

AAA Traffic Expert Recommends Bypass Of Stroudsburg

Suggestions Turned Over To Auto Club

A recommended by-pass of Stroudsburg borough by Route 611; advice to borough officials to prepare for worse parking problems if the by-pass goes through and other suggestions to alleviate the congested traffic in the Stroudsburgs were contained in the preliminary report of J. E. Johnston, manager of traffic engineering for the American Automobile Association, submitted last night as the Pocono Mountains Motor Club convened in its Stroudsburg offices.

Johnston was summoned here from Washington, D. C. early this month to survey the traffic problem after numerous civic organizations, merchants, the motor club, and Stroudsburg Borough Council went on record approving a by-pass of the borough, and opposing the "favored" plan of E. L. Schmidt, State Secretary of Highways as told to The Daily Record in June.

The traffic expert made a two-day tour of the region and announced he would file a preliminary statement before making final recommendations.

The motor club board of governors accepted Johnston's report at their monthly meeting last night and voted to make it available to the Borough Council, Chamber of Commerce, and other interested organizations and agencies.

The letter presented last night was a detailed report in which Johnston said he's awaiting the State Highway Department's survey for review but set forth his personal recommendations.

Johnston termed the traffic situation in Stroudsburg as "quite complex," adding "Stroudsburg constitutes a serious traffic bottleneck to the numerous heavily traveled highway routes that funnel into its narrow and limited arterial street system."

He continued that the problem is further complicated by seasonal variations when traffic reaches its peak during the tourist season.

The AAA official quoted from the Stroudsburg Traffic Survey conducted by the State Highway Department in 1951 which shows that 44.4 percent of traffic interviewed at the external stations showed the trip through the region was for social recreational purposes. The survey also showed that 32.9 percent of traffic entering the borough was through traffic, with as high as 77.3 percent being through traffic at the southeast approach of Highway 611.

Johnston said "There is little question but what some form of by-pass or circumferential route is needed for moving traffic through and around Stroudsburg." He further commented that since the Highway Department has not come up with a specific recommendation, he would withhold recommendations on the direction of by-pass.

He did say, however, "Such circumferential route should serve as a connector route to principal street arteries in Stroudsburg. Its location should not bisect present residential or business areas, but should, as far as possible, follow the boundary lines between zoning districts." He noted a connector route aiding traffic running parallel with Main Street would not necessarily provide for a complete by-pass.

Johnston said by-pass routes have resulted in over-all improvement in business wherever constructed, despite the opinion of many. He said also that without exception, property values increase along the by-pass route and also in the central business district.

The expert pointed out that a reduction of pedestrian and vehicular accidents over the by-passed streets, and less strain on street systems, occurs through setting up a new route. And that less traffic noise and fumes, the reduction of fire hazards and a greater service to motorists and truckers is afforded when a central business district is by-passed.

Johnston said he felt the borough of Stroudsburg was "not making the best use of existing facilities" in tackling the traffic problem within the town. He reported that through traffic should be reduced to a minimum and street space

Minimum School Age Law Change Signed Into Law

Harrisburg (AP) — Gov. John S. Fine yesterday signed into law a plan to permit the State Council of Education to fix regulations on admitting a school beginner of less than five years and seven months of age.

The old law created a furor after it was passed in 1951 and removed from school boards the right to determine the minimum age of a beginner.

The new act also requires a school census of all children between birth and 18 years of age. Previously, the school census applied to children between six and 18.

Fine Names Woodside To For Induction

Harrisburg, (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine last night nominated Atty. Gen. Robert E. Woodside to a seat on the State Superior Court.

Within a matter of hours, the Senate confirmed the nomination unanimously.

There was no indication when the governor would name a successor in the Justice Department post.

Woodside, a native of near-by Millersburg, would fill the vacancy created by the death of Judge W. Heber Dithrich, Pittsburgh. He would serve until January, 1955.

The 49-year-old Woodside was a judge of the Dauphin County Court when he was named by Fine on March 7, 1951, to head up the State Justice Department.

Korean Aid Funds Asked By President

Washington, (AP)—President Eisenhower yesterday firmly pegged American relief for Korea in fulfillment of the truce terms by South Korea's President Syngman Rhee.

In a special message to Congress, Eisenhower formally requested 200 million dollars as a first installment to help rehabilitate the war-ravaged Republic of Korea.

But the President made it clear that in providing dollar aid to rebuild Korea's shattered economy this country expects the South Koreans to live up to the newly-signed truce provisions.

On Capitol Hill, the Senate Appropriations Committee moved swiftly to carry out the President's request.

Chairman Bridges (R-NH) said the committee, meeting behind closed doors, approved an amendment to a catch-all money bill complying with Eisenhower's wishes. The amendment would give the President authority to use up to 200 million dollars in funds already voted for fighting the Korean War to undertake post-truce rehabilitation work in South Korea.

Byrnes Chosen As Delegate To U. N. Assembly

Washington (AP) — Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, longtime advocate of a firm policy toward Soviet Russia, was nominated yesterday as a member of the American delegation to the United Nations General Assembly.

Byrnes will retain his governorship during his U. N. mission. The appointment drew fire from Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who sent a telegram to Eisenhower expressing "shock and dismay."

'Lynching' Of J. B. Matthews Calls For Full Hearing

by Eugene Lyons

(One of the United States' top authorities on Communism, Mr. Lyons is a senior editor of the Reader's Digest. He has written "Assignment in Utopia," "The Red Decade," and a biography of Stalin.)

Suppose Dr. Fuddlupus, a typical pink professor, had been fired from a government job because of something he had written—fired without a hearing, without a chance to defend the truth of what he wrote, indeed without the public being told what he really said.

Instantly there would have been a huge outburst of sympathy for Fuddlupus and abuse of his persecutors, garnished with familiar rhetoric about hysteria and witch-hunt. There would have been a torrent of sermons, res-

Red Cross Needs 100 Blood Donors

Over 100 walk-in volunteers are needed for today's blood donor program if Monroe County's Red Cross chapter is to attain its 150-pint quota set for this month.

Leroy Mikels, blood bank chairman, disclosed last night that summer campers will be among those contributing blood when the mobile unit arrives at First Presbyterian Church, Stroudsburg, at 10 a.m. The campaign continues until 4 p.m. when the 150 pints must be reached.

Last night Mikels said 46 volunteers were listed from area camps and industrial plants. Among those sending donors are Blue Mountain Camp, Art Metal Co., Shawnee Inn, Line Material Co. and Worthington Mower Co. Other vacation resorts and industries are expected to augment the total before the donations are taken, but walk-ins are urgently needed, Mikels emphasized.

Today's drive is aimed at securing enough blood for the county bank to handle any demands for gamma globulin, the derivative of blood that is aiding the nation in its battle against infantile paralysis.

Mikels threw a new light on the gamma globulin allocation with his announcement that Monroe County physicians may secure the precious weapon against polio to inoculate members of a family where polio has struck.

The blood bank director disclosed that gamma globulin has been used in great amounts in areas designated as epidemic regions, but noted that the fluid already has been used here in Monroe County.

Mikels said physicians may secure gamma globulin from the Pennsylvania Department of Health to administer to family members, or anyone else in contact with persons afflicted with the dread disease.

Volunteer workers, including nurses, doctors, volunteer women's groups and drivers are standing by for today's campaign. Mikels said several parking meters outside the Main Street church will be reserved for persons desiring to contribute blood.

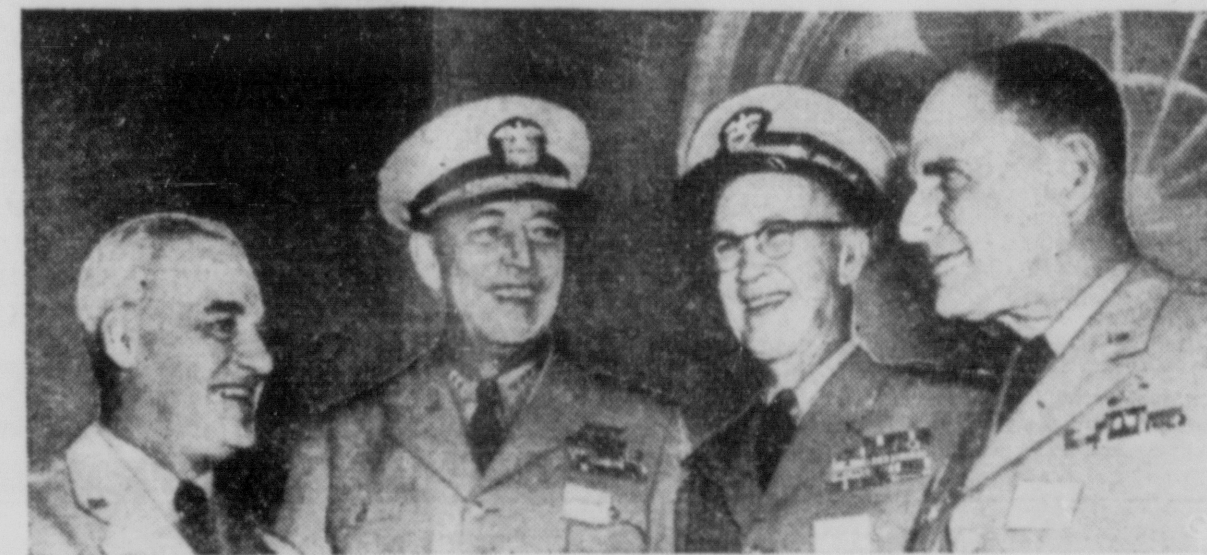

Whole blood also is needed to supply the General Hospital in East Stroudsburg where persons daily are receiving transfusions.

Summer vacationists have been among the majority of persons treated for accidental injuries in the past two months, and many of those have needed blood, it was reported. This blood has been given by the county chapter without cost, and the urgent need for its replacement is another reason why today's drive must reach the pinnacle, Mikels added.

Americans Linked To Slay Hunters

Gaspé, Que., (AP)—Two Americans were reported last night to have been in the Gaspé wilderness with three Pennsylvania hunters at the outset of a bear-hunting expedition that ended in gruesome murder.

Wilbert Coffin, 37-year-old prospector, testified at a coroner's inquest that he was introduced June 10 to the two Americans from the Hollidaysburg, Pa., hunters, whose bear-mauled remains later were found scattered through the bush.

Final Assembly Session Extends Beyond Midnight

Harrisburg, (AP)—The General Assembly ground slowly last night toward end of the long 1953 session.

All major issues were settled or tucked away for another but the mechanics of buttoning up many legislative odds and ends promised to keep the lawmakers in session long past midnight.

Both House and Senate agreed on 3 p. m. as the time for the official end of the session. But the official time bore on relation to the actual situation. The clocks merely were turned back when that hour approached.

A session-long dispute over revision of the State Constitution finally was ended on the last day.

The Assembly sent to Gov. John S. Fine legislation providing only for a referendum at the November election to let the voters decide if they want a new Constitution.

The governor had asked the Legislature to authorize election of delegates this fall to a Constitutional convention to meet in Harrisburg next year. That recommendation was rejected.

Some amendments to the 1 percent sales tax were approved even before that tax goes into effect on Sept. 1.

The amendments, sent to the governor, exempt religious articles and water bills from the levy, which also exempt food, clothing and meals at public eating places. Another new selection calls for the registration of all retailers with the State Revenue Department, which will collect the tax.

It was estimated to produce 125 million dollars in the 1953-55 biennium. The governor signed into law during the day a bill increasing the borrowing power of the General State Authority by 95 million dollars, from 235 to 330 millions.

The decision, reached after months of wrangling, to impose a sales tax in Pennsylvania, topped all other major actions taken during the seven month session which opened in January.

Child adoption. Passed legislation tightening present laws, giving added protection to children, parents and adopting couples.

State Court Six Youths To Report

Six Monroe County youths are scheduled to report to Wilkes-Barre Wednesday for induction into the Armed Forces.

Mrs. Beulah McConnell, chief clerk of Local Board 105, listed the inductees as Joseph M. Shea, John J. Weiss and Jonathan E. Hostetter, all of East Stroudsburg; Joseph W. Battisto, Mount Pocono; James H. Butz, Tannersville, and Robert E. Gregory, Kunkletown.

Draft Calls To Decline, Then Climb

Washington (AP)—The end of fighting in Korea may permit monthly draft calls to be cut by 4,000 men in about three months but the callup is expected to climb to 40,000 in mid-1954. That's nearly double the present draft of 23,000 men a month.

This outlook for draft-age youths is outlined in the most recent statements by Defense Department and Selective Service officials and the terms of the truce agreement signed Sunday.

Whether any cut in the draft can be made—and when—depends on just how stable the armistice is in Korea, said John A. Hannah, Asst. Secretary of Defense for manpower. If conditions permit, he said, the callup will drop from 23,000 to 19,000 in 90 days.

Hannah said he thought it will be necessary to raise the draft to 40,000 a month in July 1954, because callups were heavy in the first 18 months of the Korean War, and men completing their service will have to be replaced to keep the armed services up to strength.

Armistice Won't Affect Young Men

San Francisco, (AP)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of Selective Service, said yesterday it will be most unfortunate if the young men of the United States believe their plans, with respect to the draft, are going to be changed as a result of the Korean truce.

Any youth facing his two years of military service "should not get excited" about escaping such service because of the truce, Hershey told a news conference. He advised the young people to go ahead with their plans to get an education before being called into the armed forces.

He predicted that in 1953-56 "we are going to have to take fathers, 4Fs and dependents or increase the length of time we're going to take a man for service."

Rhee Assured Of Allied Support If Conference Fails

Munsan, Tuesday (AP)—The Korean Armistice Commission met for the first time today on its tough job of policing the truce which last night brought a strange, uneasy quiet to this "Land of the Morning Calm" after more than three years of war.

The commission, made up of five Allied and five Communist senior officers, convened promptly at 11 a.m. (10 p.m., EDT, Monday).

No agenda was announced, but one of the first orders of business presumably will be the exchange of war prisoners—particularly those wounded or who became sick since the Allies and Communists traded ailing POWs last April.

In Seoul, President Syngman Rhee told his South Korean countrymen he had been assured the Allies "are determined to fight with us jointly in complete unity of purpose" if the post-armistice political conference with the Reds breaks down.

"President Eisenhower has expressed his firm belief that the issue of unification of Korea will be solved during the three-month political conference," Rhee added in a message. "From our point of view this is hardly likely to happen, but we wish to have confidence in President Eisenhower's words."

The 78-year-old Korean leader, who stoutly opposed any truce leaving his war-shattered nation divided, said the United States had given the republic "a full guarantee" of protection against aggression.

The armistice became effective at 10 last night. More than 1,700,000 soldiers in the opposing armies relaxed along the 150-mile battlefront after the last rumbling blasts of massed artillery.

Some front-line units shot up flares. On the Western Front, U. S. Marines poked their heads over ridgelines and watched the Chinese move into the open to remove dead comrades.

One officer said the Reds came near enough to "bum a smoke" but added, "There was no fraternization."

A Communist front-line loudspeaker blatantly bid the Leathernecks to "a party."

A third signing of the bulky armistice documents was completed today at Munsan and in Pyongyang, the Korean Communist capital. Gen. Mark W. Clark, United Nations commander, flew back to his Tokyo headquarters after signing copies of the agreement which yesterday were sent north and signed by the Red high command.

Copies of the document were exchanged earlier today by liaison officers at Panmunjom.

The agreement provides for the speedy exchange of 86,000 prisoners, including 3,313 Americans. A Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission will handle those 22,000 additional North Korean and Chinese prisoners refusing repatriation.

At Koje Island, Allied officers this morning began loading ships with Communist prisoners for transfer to the southeastern Korean port of Pusan, where they will be put aboard trains for movement to Panmunjom.

The exchange at Panmunjom was expected to begin late this week. Signing of the armistice document at Panmunjom yesterday set a long chain of events in motion and ended the secrecy that had hung over the final negotiations.

Red Cross teams were expected at Panmunjom shortly. They will go into stockades in both North and South Korea to aid in the prisoner swap.

The newly revealed record showed that the Communists will return the disappointing total of only 12,763 Allied prisoners. The U. S. alone by latest estimates has 13,285 men missing in action.

Besides the 3,313 Americans, Red stockades will be emptied of 8,186 Koreans, 922 British, 12 French, 228 Turks, 15 Australians, 40 Filipinos, 14 Canadians, 22 Colombians, 6 South Africans, 1 Greek, 1 Belgian, 3 Japanese. It made a total of 4,577 prisoners of non-Korean nationality to be returned.

The Communists said they will return the captives at the rate of 300 per day, including sick and wounded. This would take about 43 days.

The United Nations Command informed the Reds the proposed rate of 300 daily was "unduly small."

The Chinese Red staff officer handling repatriation, Col. Wuang Chien then said the Communists were "willing to complete repatriation at the earliest date" and promised a study of transportation facilities. If possible the number would be increased.

The U. N. Command agreed to send back 69,000 North Koreans and about 5,000 Chinese at the rate of 2,400 able bodied men and 360 sick and wounded daily. At this

Silence Falls Across Korean Battlefield

Seoul, Tuesday, (AP)—The guns fell silent last night 37 months after the Communists brought war, death and misery to this Asian peninsula with an invasion of South Korea.

Thus ended—at least for the present—a conflict that had cost the antagonists nearly 2½ million casualties.

Only five minutes before the guns ended their almost ceaseless mutter, the Allies cut loose with one tremendous barrage that shook the valleys and bruised hills of the Central Front.

The Communist guns, which had been blazing away along most of the 150-mile front, then ceased firing.

That was the last firing reported on the Central Front and it ended at 9:43 p. m., but field dispatches said Chinese guns savagely pounded South Korean lines on the Eastern Front right up to the deadline of 10 p. m.

The men of the 17-nation Allied army relaxed, although warned by their commanders that this is only a truce—not peace.

Near-Old Baldy of bitter memory, on the northern invasion approaches to Seoul, U. S. soldiers came out of their trenches in the bright moonlight, walked around in the open, smoked and talked quietly.

The Chinese Reds, who had thrown them off Old Baldy, sent out a party and recovered 14 bodies in no man's land. It still was 15 minutes before the cease-fire but the U. S. soldiers did not shoot.

The U. S. soldiers sprawled on the top of ridgelines where it had meant certain death to show their heads moments before.

On the Western Front, Chinese Reds and U. S. Marines saluted each other with flares, where only hours before they had been shooting for keeps. The Chinese also came out in the open and relaxed on the ridges.

The Fifth Air Force, which had given the Communists no respite day or night, called off its warplanes beginning at 9:30 p. m.

Shortly after the control stations began broadcasting the orders to return to base, a single B26 Invader made the last combat sortie, unloading 2½ tons of high explosives on the Chinese at the front.

Matthews "Lynching" Deplored

by Eugene Lyons

Worse, nearly all of them have joined in the wild and knowing attacks and denunciations.

I refer of course to Dr. J. B. Matthews. He has been spoken to a far-seeing well by Senators and the President by speakers for the organized clergy and the press. But not one of his self-righteous accusers has had the courage or the decency to deal frankly and fully with what he actually had written.

Something seems to have gone very wrong with the Washington reporters. The disputed article, in the American Mercury, was on the newstands. As a matter of professional duty and ordinary fair play they should have read it and appraised the public of its contents. The country then could have been able to judge him.

Instead, only a sentence or two from the article have as yet reached the general public. Dr. Matthews declared that "the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States today is composed of Protestant clergymen." Admittedly, this is a startling statement.

But what if it happened to be true? Should Dr. Matthews be abused and branded and punished for uttering it?

His article runs to many pages. It gives names, figures, details. Far from attacking the Protestant clergy as a whole, it emphasizes that the Red-tainted ministers are only a tiny minority—7,000 out of some 250,000—and that most of them are innocent dupes of Communist high-binders.

Dr. Matthews was not denouncing the clergy as a whole but, on the contrary, was defending it against those who, knowingly or otherwise, have been giving aid and comfort to a Godless tyranny. The least he deserved was a fair hearing—not the frenzied and uninformed lynching that he got.

J. B. Matthews, a former clergyman and missionary himself and long a professor of Semitic languages, has specialized for two decades in research on the Communist conspiracy in our midst. Those who know this field best, myself included, regard him as about the best informed American on the subject. A stickler for facts, his record for accuracy has been remarkably good.

Moreover, the prominence of clergymen in pro-Soviet and pro-Communist fronts and enterprises is too obvious to be denied. Dr. Matthews is not the first to write about it. Everyone of us who has dealt with the Communist menace has of necessity deplored the success of the Kremlin crowd in subverting and exploiting the naive and the good-will of so many thousands of clergymen.

The duty of our spiritual leadership, in simple common sense, is to face up to these facts, not to denounce anyone who dares allude to them. Dr. Matthews' charges should be examined, instead of being derided and denied without examination.

Let's hear his side of the story, even if it hurts. Those who call him names and approve his lynching without a hearing sacrifice the right, ever after, to praise about smearing and character murder.

Anti-Communists, no less than Dr. Fuddipuss and his kind, are entitled to speak the truth as they see it.

Editor:
The Daily Record,
Stroudsburg, Pa.

Dear Sir:
For more than three weeks, some form of electrical disturbance has rendered television reception entirely impossible for residents of Franklin Hill, after about 6 p.m.

The local office of the Metropolitan Edison Company has received several complaints about this situation but, to date, no action has been taken by the company to detect or help correct the condition. If our utility companies have become so powerful and enjoy such a monopoly that they can ignore what is surely a dislocation of their subscribers' lives, we'll begin to believe that proponents of Federal power have a real case.

Sincerely yours,
A TV FAN.

Sunday, 26th July, 1953
Mr. Horace Heller
Editor, "The Daily Record"
Stroudsburg, Penna.

Dear Mr. Heller:
Some three years ago, during the summer of 1950, I was one of those employed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania—meaning, of course, none other than the taxpayers of this state—on a much-needed and widely-publicized project known as "State Highway Traffic and Planning Survey." The stated purpose of this venture, ostensibly, was to find the most suitable method whereby a practical by-pass might be constructed around the borough limits of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg—one which, according to the general understanding of practically every informed person at that time, would completely circumvent the well-populated sections of both communities.

Since that time, while several years have elapsed, how much real action of a genuine, concrete nature has been undertaken in that direction? The answer could very readily be found merely in a single brief expression—absolutely nothing.

It is high time that some efforts beyond sole words were expended in order to bring about the successful completion of this highly necessary roadway which is to alleviate the frightful traffic congestion which plagues all of us residents, as well as vacationers from outside, at the present time. Words alone will never get the job finished.

Here is a plan which has never been presented by any other person or group of persons heretofore, and one which would appear to merit at least a considerable amount of attention on the part of all responsible authorities. Why not give some thought to the following suggestions?

Since the necessary super-highway must in some manner provide a connection between the top of Foxtown Hill and the outskirts north of Stroudsburg or East Stroudsburg, which lead into the Pocono Mountains, the proposed route could easily swing off in the vicinity of the Pocono Wild Animal Farm, and thence, by means of an overhead structure, bring the northbound or westbound traffic off from the top of the hill and over toward the old power dam along Brodheads Creek. From this point, the former Wilkes-Barre and Eastern Railroad bed could be utilized, eastward to a position immediately opposite the same creek from the Empire Box Corporation. At this location, the new highway could swing gradually northward until it intersected at or near the present junction of routes 612 and 45059 in Minisink Hills. From there, proceed along legislative route 45059 (into and past the Franklin Hill section), and then continue in a generally northerly direction, crossing route 209 (Millford Road) approximately one-half mile east of Eagle Valley Corners, and eventually connecting with route 190 (toward Analomink) not far from the plant of Tru-Matic Machine and Tool Company.

This plan would re-route the great bulk of incoming (or northward-bound) traffic into Analomink, and once there, these motorists might either continue in their northerly direction toward Barrett Township (Cresco, Canadensis, Mountainhome, etc.) or they could, without any difficulty at all, turn westward through Paradise and Pocono Townships (toward Henryville, Tannersville, Swiftwater, and the great variety of other Pocono Mountain resorts for which they might be bound.

In the meantime, by all means, do not fail to keep up the noble efforts and the good work on your part—everything which you have been doing, through your medium of mass communication, to help this community of ours. Sooner or later, through our collective efforts, we are destined to get this task done! Let us simply hope, for the sake and the benefits of this community, that the time will be sooner, rather than later.

Sincerely yours,
Victor Spirito

Why FORD'S your best buy!

"WORTH MORE" IS THE ANSWER...IT COSTS SO LITTLE TO BUY
...SO LITTLE TO RUN...AND HAS SUCH HIGH RESALE VALUE!

The best buy in an automobile usually means the amount of pleasure and satisfaction the owner gets from his original dollars-and-cents investment, plus low day-to-day running costs, plus the amount of value he recovers when he sells his car.

What is it that makes Ford your best buy? Is it the fine styling and craftsmanship of its Crestmark Body... or its new "ride" with curve-hugging and bump-leveling qualities never before known in low-priced cars? Or is it Ford's famous V-8 or Mileage Maker Six? Maybe it's the easy way the car handles with Fordomatic Drive that does your shifting for you, and Ford's Master-Guide power steering that applies hydraulic "muscles" automatically! Perhaps it's Ford's suspended pedals, or Center-Fill Fueling or Full-Circle Visibility!

Actually, it's not just any one or two of these fine things that make Ford your best buy. It's all of Ford's "Worth More" features combined... features which today's car buyers know make Ford worth more when you buy it... and worth more when you sell it!

"Best buy" where you ride! Ford's foam-rubber cushioned seats, front and rear, are sofa-wide and sofa-soft. Interior fabrics, color-keyed to Ford's smart outside colors, would be a credit to any car at any price.

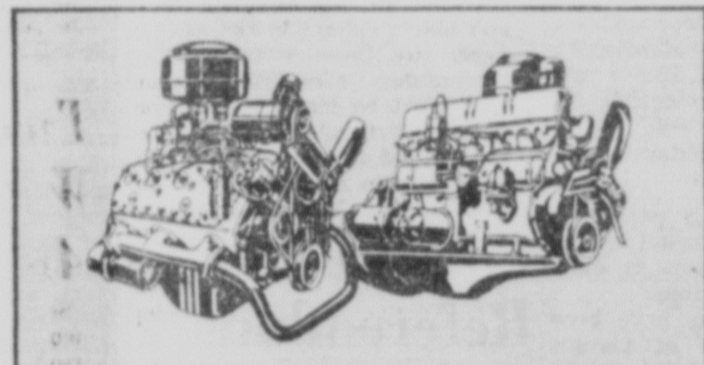

"Best buy" where you drive! Ford's suspended pedals operate more easily... eliminate dusty, drafty floor holes. And Ford drivers have a choice of Fordomatic Drive, Overdrive or Conventional transmission.

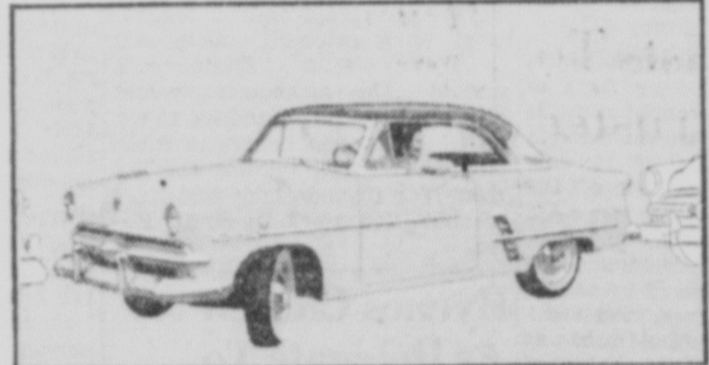

"Best buy" at the gas pumps! When you need to "fill 'er up", you do it the modern Ford way with Center-Fill Fueling. And Ford's Automatic Power Pilot gives you power to spare on a lean diet of regular gas.

"Best buy" on the road! The rougher the road the better your Ford likes it because Ford's new "ride" cuts front end road shock alone up to 80%... babies you over the bumps... and cuts sideways on turns.

"Best buy" in engine power! Only Ford in its field offers you a choice of V-8 or Six. Ford has built more V-8's—over 13,000,000—than all other makers combined. And Ford's Six—the most modern in the industry—with Overdrive, won the Mobilgas Economy Run Grand Sweepstakes!

"Best buy" in power steering! Ford's Master-Guide (available on all V-8 models) supplies hydraulic "muscles"—automatically whenever you need them—to do the work of steering for you. All you do is guide the car. Makes all driving easier, safer. Parking's easy—requires only one-fourth of normal effort.

Safety First

Pennsylvania's new car dealers are interested in more than just putting you behind the wheel of one of their automobiles. They are intensely interested in your safety and the safety of others.

At a meeting here this week the Pennsylvania Automotive Association gave its attention to a program to increase safety on the state's streets and highways. It is a further implementation of the widespread educational programs now being pushed by various agencies in the firm realization that it is not the car that is the killer, but rather the lack of knowledge and caution on the part of driver and pedestrian alike.

The PAA program would provide greater traffic aids for pedestrians; step up the number of driver training programs in schools by making available more behind-the-wheel cars and increase stress on maintenance of mechanically safe cars through more rigid inspection.

The safety message has been hammered home to the public in every possible form, and while there has been some noticeable improvement in driver and pedestrian habits, there still remains a broad avenue for improvement.

Unless and until the driver and the pedestrian permit the message to sink into their consciousness every time they are abroad on the street or highways there will be deaths and injuries. It is up to the people to take the knowledge seriously that their lives are indeed in their own hands.

The PAA program, while not unique, is another step in the campaign to make everyone safety conscious. Anything that does further that important aim will add to the reduction of deaths and injuries.

The Prison Program

Some improvement in Pennsylvania's prison policies should result from the package of bills sent by the Legislature to Governor Fine for approval.

These bills will transfer control of Pennsylvania's prisons (the Pennsylvania Training School at Morgantown excepted) from the State Welfare Department to the Justice Department.

In itself, this change doesn't represent any great advance. The Justice Department is the Attorney General's office, devoted to giving legal advice to the state administration. It is another department of the same administration which operates the Welfare Department, and it has had no experience in the operation of prisons.

The transfer of these prisons to another jurisdiction can be considered a slap at the Welfare Department, under whose jurisdiction two costly prison riots broke out last January in Western Penitentiary and its Rockview extension.

The most encouraging part of the new program is the establishment of Classification Centers in both the Eastern and Western parts of the state to study new prisoners and determine where they should serve their terms.

But the state needed no such new survey as was performed by the Devers Committee to determine the need for this step. This was an important phase of the plan put forward years ago by Stanley P. Ashe, former warden of Western Penitentiary. Unfortunately, the state government ignored this recommendation until the riots showed the need for it.

The new plan also will make separate institutions out of Western Penitentiary and Rockview. Now, the latter institution is considered a branch of Western, and is in charge of a deputy warden responsible to the Western Penitentiary warden.

The success of this plan apparently will depend on the excellence of the Division of Correction, to be set up in the Justice Department, and the qualifications of the Commissioner of Corrections to be appointed by the Attorney General.

If this post is treated as a political plum, we could get a continuation of the left-handed administration which was blamed, in part, for last January's prison riots. If a qualified prison expert is appointed, he would have the opportunity of making great improvements in Pennsylvania's handling of the prison problem.

A practical part of the new prison program is the bill that would increase the pay of prison guards from $236 to $286 monthly and give them the five-day week. It stands to reason that if the state wants qualified men for this work, it must make some effort to meet working conditions granted by private industry.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Arab Nations, Israel Will Get Military Aid From U.S.

Washington — A far-reaching shift in U.S. policy in the Near East is hidden in the battered foreign aid and budget pending in Congress.

As projected in these unannounced plans, the U.S. for the first time will offer the Arab countries a total of $100,000,000 in military assistance and $75,000,000 in economic help.

This program does not include Iran; that explosive problem is dealt with separately. Sign a military alliance with each Arab country that accepts the proposed aid.

Also in the budget is a $20,000,000 allocation for military assistance to Israel. The amount for economic measures is not definitely specified; under one interpretation, the figure could be considerably less than Israel has been getting.

The momentous change in policy is largely the result of last spring's tour of the Near and Middle East by Secretary of State Dulles and Mutual Security Administrator Harold Stassen. In numerous discussions they sounded out Arab leaders on the proposed program under which their nations will enter into bilateral pacts with the U.S. in exchange for definite allotments of military and economic aid.

That means a major revision of American policy.

The Truman Administration proceeded on the concept of creating a Near East defense command, that would include both the Arab countries and Israel. This regional combine was based on the theory that it not only would provide an effective military counter to the ever-present threat of Communist aggression but would also operate to palliate dangerous internal and external disputes, such as those between Egypt and Britain and Israel and the Arabs.

Pending the fruition of this plan, the Truman regime extended various kinds of economic assistance throughout the area, particularly to Israel.

The new Eisenhower-Dulles policy does not abandon the concept of a Near East defense command. That basic NATO project is retained, but in a different category than before.

It will no longer be pressed as the immediate objective. Instead, it has been relegated to the background as a future goal, while efforts and means are concentrated on putting through the new (intermediate) program of bilateral alliance with the individual Near Eastern countries.

NOTE: Last week this column disclosed the following major military allocations in the foreign aid budget sought by the Administration: Italy $375,722,000; France $317,488,000; Germany $316,538,000; United Kingdom $259,397,000; Yugoslavia $216,906,000; Belgium $182,026,000. The total military program is $2,179,690,000.

The Secret Details—The inside story of the new policy came to light at several meetings between leaders of the House Appropriations Committee and State Department officials, particularly Assistant Secretary Henry Byrde.

Under forceful questioning the chief of Near Eastern, South Asian and African Affairs disclosed the details of the plan and also the reason it is shrouded in secrecy. That was sharply assailed by Representative John J. Rooney (D., N.Y.).

"The Executive branch plans programs of military aid to the Near East and Africa," Byrde explained, "of approximately $430,000,000 in fiscal 1954. Of that total, about $30,000,000 is intended for Greece, Turkey and Iran, and the remaining $400,000,000 for other countries in the area."

"Just what do you mean by other countries in the area?" demanded Rooney. Byrde replied he meant, "Countries from Turkey to the east and the south, which have little indigenous military strength." He added that Secretary Dulles had informed President Eisenhower the "situation in this region calls for urgent action."

"As I get the picture from what you have told us," said Rooney, "this $100,000,000 in military aid is earmarked for the Arab nations, isn't that right?"

"That is correct," admitted Byrde.

"Isn't that a disproportionately large amount compared to what is contemplated for Israel?" "We don't think so," declared Byrde. "We feel ample provision is being made for that country both in military and economic assistance."

"That is debatable from the information before us."

Committee Chairman John Taber (R., N.Y.), also expressed doubt about data Byrde was guardedly divulging. Taber said, "It is the first we have heard of it. What's it all about; give us all the details. We want to know what you people are up to, and why. That's what you are here for."

"At present," said Byrde, "the Executive branch does not have the detailed program which this committee customarily expects in support of requests for appropriations. The program cannot be developed in detail without consultation with the recipient governments. In the absence of special Congressional authority we have not felt it appropriate to undertake such consultations. However, the Joint Chiefs of Staff have provided a general framework for an assistance program for the Arab countries that would be administered in conjunction with the State Department on the political factors involved."

The habit got its name from the word "holly." It was once widely used as food on Christian holy days.

George Sokolsky Says...

Beria's Case Indicates Red Empire's Assimilation Plan Has Not Been Sound of their own.

Such peoples as the Ukrainians and Georgians have on many occasions exhibited separatist tendencies. Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia and the areas of Finland taken during the general World War II period have been absorbed but not assimilated by Russia. The newer provinces, East Germany, Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, still regard themselves as sovereign nations associated with Soviet Russia by Marxist ties and treaties.

Beria, as head of the secret police, with tentacles down to the grass roots of each area, must have realized the dangers inherent in centralization within an empire. Or, he may have selected this issue to test his strength against the other members of the Politburo. At any rate, he advocated a greater degree of states rights, of local autonomy, of slowing down the Russification of non-Russian areas.

Against his arguments was raised the orthodox credo of Marxism that the proletariat is universal, that it rejects nationalism as an evil device of the capitalists to suppress the workers, that the object of the Bolshevik Revolution was to produce a "One World" concept with the Kremlin at its heart. The Communist Manifesto proclaimed: "Workers of the world unite!" Stalin added to the slogan the concept of Russia as the fatherland of the revolution and the Kremlin as its citadel.

"Izvestia" stated the case against Beria in this orthodox language: "V. I. Lenin and J. V. Stalin provided a profound Marxist approach to the national problem, establishing the theory underlying the Communist Party's national policy and arming the Party with the program on the national question. Carrying out this program, the Communist Party rallied the proletarians of Russia's many nationalities, headed by the Russian working class, under the banner of the Socialist Revolution, and led them in the storming of the landowners' and capitalists' regime."

Further, it said: "National oppression and colonial enslavement, chauvinism and national enmity, fanned by the ruling classes for the purpose of disuniting and further plundering oppressed nations, are characteristic of the bourgeois state. National contradictions in the bourgeois countries are becoming more and more aggravated, the national liberation struggle of the peoples of the colonial and dependent countries is growing and spreading, and the disintegration of imperialism's colonial system continues."

"The indissoluble friendship of peoples and their fraternal cooperation and mutual assistance, which are developing in the U. S. S. R. under the banner of proletarian internationalism, are among the greatest achievements of the Communist Party and Soviet state, a source of the might and invincibility of our socialist motherland. In the friendly family of Soviet peoples the formerly oppressed nations have achieved an unprecedented political, economic and cultural flowering, thanks of the fraternal support and assistance of the great Russian people."

This then was the issue and over it Beria surely lost his status and probably his life. A man of extensive political experience, he would not have risked everything on this national question, as they call it, were it not that his worldwide espionage organization reported over prolonged periods and over a vast expanse that non-Russian peoples were finding the Kremlin oppressive and that nationalism, as normal to mankind as breath itself, was reasserting itself with marked acceleration.

It was apparently a question of political timing and perhaps an undue regard for the sincerity of the American "liberation policy," which Beria must have assumed would be implemented once revolutionary movements asserted themselves in such areas as Czechoslovakia and East Germany. In this he erred because the United States had already, without notification, abandoned the "liberation policy" and had adapted a modification of Winston Churchill's policy of appeasement. Apparently, Beria's penetration into the State Department is not as effective today as it was when Alger Hiss was its genius.

So Beria was liquidated and the orthodox Stalinists are in command. Nevertheless, the incident and its discussion in the Russian press and the explanations offered the peoples of the Soviet Union open to us a view of the essential weakness of this empire which is that the process of assimilation, constant since 1917 and until his death the special charge of Stalin, has not succeeded in destroying nationalism among federated and absorbed peoples.

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

Do you remember the days of the mustard plaster, the flannel cloth, the goose grease, and the tiny bag of that awful smelling asafetida?

Mrs. Helen B. Kissing of La Moille, Minn., does, and she also believes that some day all the so-called wonder drugs of today will have taken the place of the old fashioned remedies—and of Salen witchcraft.

It is all a matter of belief, she writes. When you stop believing in a thing, it loses its effects. When you stop believing, for instance, that getting old is bad, then your health and your mental outlook will be much better and you will be happier to the end of your days, she writes.

Not all of us, by any means, have stopped believing in mustard plasters and asafetida.

In Brooklyn they just arrested a 111-year-old fellow who conducts a business called the Dew Drop Inn, just a stone's throw from the Borough Hall.

His name is Mosha Byran, and he claims to be a Hindu. He is a bachelor and a member of the 10th Assembly District Republican Club. This, however, has nothing to do with the story, unless some disappointed spinster would like to bait her hook for a 111-year-old bachelor.

Byran professes trust in the efficacy of mysterious drugs, or at least in the fact that many others believe in them. This is proven by the thriving business he does in such things as Egyptian hair pomade, made of fish worm oil, Egyptian henna, rose oil, coconut oil, elephant oil and banana oil. The stuff sells for $2.48 plus 50 cents Federal tax.

He also has a hair straightener for $1.50 plus tax; lucky stones, male and female, for $5.00 a pair. There is also an Egyptian pumpkin seed tea, to purify the blood and intestinal tract, which you can buy for $1.25 a pound, tax extra.

Byran claims that he owes his longevity to the pumpkin seed tea. His concoctions not only kept him alive, but were also responsible for his latest arrest—the sixth or seventh. Two women detectives went to his place and claimed that they had cancer. He made the mistake of telling them that he had a cure for cancer, in addition to the many other things he carried.

I would not recommend his remedies to anyone, however, particularly his hair tonics. Mosha Byran wears a black skull cap. When he took it off to scratch his head, lo and behold, he showed that he is as bald as a billiard ball.

For practicing medicine without a license—he rubbed a malodorous ointment into the detective's legs and massaged them—he is liable to a year in jail, a $500 fine, or both. He put up the $1,500 bail in cash without a murmur, which proves that people indeed remedies.

By the way, a London scientist has just discovered that a certain individual, Pygospio Elegans, when he gets old and decrepit, simply divides himself into seven pieces, and each of the pieces comes out after a while as a new, young and vigorous well. I might as well tell you, Pygospio Elegans is a marine worm who lives on Verso Island in Denmark.

But wouldn't it be nice if WE could do that?

Conference Agenda To Be Full One

By J. M. Roberts Jr.,
Associated Press News Analyst

The United States now has just 89 days to prepare for what is generally recognized in Washington as a stern test of her diplomatic wisdom.

The government's experts have been so tied up with arrangements for the Korean military truce, and the embarrassment caused by Syngman Rhee's last stand against it, that they have had almost no opportunity to study the course they will take in the conference for political settlements which is to come.

And part of this time will have to be devoted to what may turn out to be considerably more than routine maneuvering in the United Nations. The exact time and place of the conference, and the nations to be represented, will be decided there at a meeting of the General Assembly called for Aug. 17.

Nobody will be surprised if that session itself takes some time, since it is quite possible the Russians will bring up the question of Red China's admission to U. N. membership, an especially ticklish question among the Allies.

There is just a possibility, too, that Russia will want to attend the conference herself, because of its effect on the entire Communist position in Asia, which could cause an extended fight.

In any case, the United States is expected to demand the full time allowed under the armistice terms in which to prepare its case for the conference. So far it appears the United States will carry the ball for the U. N. much in the same fashion it has during the war, but this is not certain.

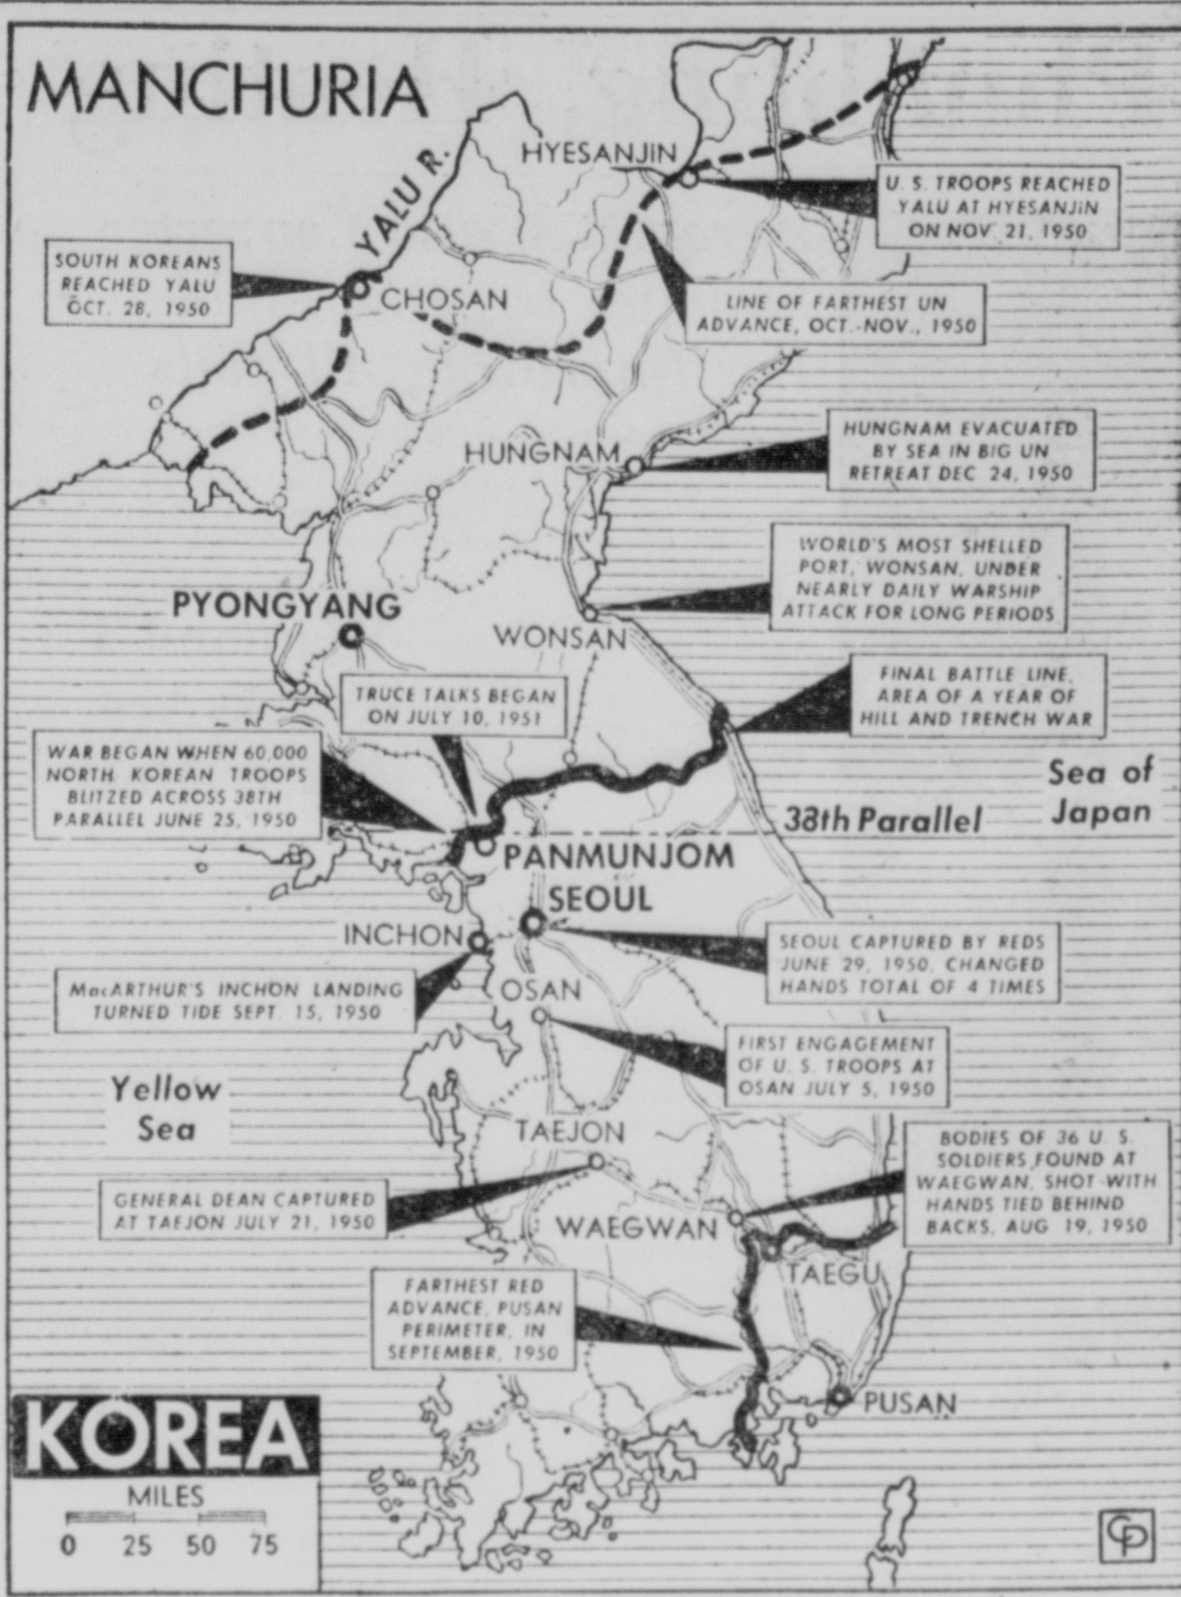

Some of the participating nations grew unhappy under U. S. command then, and may seek to broaden the base of U. N. representation now.

One of the fundamental matters on which the United States still has to make up its mind is whether it wants to confine the conference to Korean problems, or open up the whole field of Asiatic disputes, which is possible under the "etc." clause of the truce paragraph which sets out the conference's purposes.

It is almost certain that the conference will touch at least one matter not directly connected with Korea, for it is one of the first things the Red Chinese are expected to bring up as a bargaining point when reunification of Korea is suggested. That is the future of Formosa.

This one subject alone is sufficient to give the American planners a headache for the entire 89 days they have left.

And, regardless of the agenda, the whole conference will be

HERE ARE THE HIGHLIGHTS of the Korean War, which got under way June 25, 1950, and swept down, up, down, and up the Korean peninsula to wind up very close to the 38th parallel where it all started.

Red Cross To Speed Aid To Prisoners

Washington, (AP)—The American Red Cross said yesterday it is making available all of its facilities in this country and in the Far East to speed help to United Nations prisoners of war in Korea.

The following specific projects were announced:

One. Red Cross representatives visiting Communist prison camps will take with them items of comfort for prisoners—including toilet articles, writing materials, cigarettes and reading matter.

Two. As in the sick-and-wounded prisoner exchange of three months ago, the Red Cross will pay the cost of a 50-word radiogram home for each American repatriate.

Three. For sick and injured prisoners who must be hospitalized in Japan the Red Cross will provide free telephone calls home if facilities permit.

The Red Cross said the truce agreement will permit the International Committee of the Red Cross to visit Communist prison camps in North Korea for the first time.

A total of 70 Red Cross representatives of nine U. N. countries will work with military authorities and with a counterpart Red Cross team from North Korea and Communist China in repatriating prisoners from each side. They include 18 Americans, headed by team coordinator L. W. Neatherlin of Dallas, Tex.

Bob Collins Uses Master Plumbers

The D. Katz & Sons plumbing and heating department is now staffed to handle any work from replacing a sink washer to a complete home or commercial heating installation, according to department manager Robert Collins.

Collins pointed out all work is being done by master plumbers in accordance with the Plumbing Code. The Dreher Ave. firm also offers its customers 24-hour service.

In addition to oil burner service and complete cleaning and reconditioning of heating equipment, the Katz firm now also handles pump service and reconditioning work.

According to Collins the firm is one of the largest plumbing and heating concerns in the county, and growing constantly to meet increasing demand in the heating and plumbing field.

Joseph Weber was recently made foreman of the Katz installation department. He stressed that all men working under him are covered by property and liability insurance to assure the customer of complete protection.

The Katz firm can completely engineer and install plumbing and heating equipment for new homes . . . either hot water, steam or forced hot air systems, the latter with or without summer air conditioning.

For those wanting relief from the summer heat, Katz installation men can quickly install exhaust systems for the home, taproom, restaurants, etc. Exhaust systems provide the benefits of air conditioning without the exorbitant cost.

Special discounts on all types of plumbing and heating work are available for hotels, boarding houses, tourist homes and resorts.

For speedy estimates and help on any heating or plumbing problem, call Robert Collins, Stroudsburg 2369.

Rinehart Says III Freezers Feminized
E. M. Rinehart says, new International Harvester Freezers are feminized! Women dreamed them . . . home economists planned them.

Like the famous International Harvester Refrigerators, the new III Freezers are "feminized" . . . planned by women, for women . . . products fully tested in daily use and approved by the home economists in the Irma Harding Kitchen Laboratories of International Harvester . . . planned and proved to make your kitchen work easier, more pleasant; to cut your kitchen time and trips to the store.

With new International Harvester Over-All Sub-Zero Freezing on All 5 Inner Surfaces, you get far more fast-freezing capacity. Yes . . . the ability of your freezer to actually freeze foods—not just preserve frozen foods—is now far greater than ever before. Now you can freeze much more food at one time!

Now you can buy and freeze food in large quantities at the height of the season when prices are lowest; enjoy favorite foods and out-of-season delicacies months afterwards. You can also save by buying frozen foods in big quantities . . . meat and ice cream, too!

You avoid waste with an International Harvester freezer in your home. You can store away leftovers and snacks as well as lunches and complete meals. In fact, you'll plan to save-often! Freeze and store holiday foods such as turkey, and enjoy them months later as a taste-treat.

You will have more time to enjoy life with an International Harvester Freezer in your home. A basic necessity these budget-watching days, it gives you better food and a better way of life. Have E. M. Rinehart show your freezers by International Harvester—the World's Leading Freezer! E. M. Rinehart's International Harvester showrooms are located at 1875 W. Main Street, in Stroudsburg.

Frankfurters Popular
Frankfurters travel along with the best of company when stuffed with mushrooms and cheese. Simply make three slantwise slits in each frankfurter. Do not slice entirely through the meat. Insert a slice of canned mushroom, a small slice of onion and a 1-inch square of cheese in each slit. Roast over hot coals; serve on toasted or plain buns.

For thousands of years, honey was almost man's only source of sweetening.

WITH OUR RECENT HEAT WAVE you wouldn't think many people would be thinking about next winter's heating problem. Well, apparently many a Monroe County homeowner has been doing just that. Evidence of this is given by Robert Collins, manager of the D. Katz & Sons plumbing and heating department. In the last six months the Dreher Ave. firm has given away 6,000 gallons of fuel oil free of charge on oil conversion installations, Collins noted. He is shown above with Joseph Weber, foreman of the Katz installation department, getting ready to deliver a Koven boiler. All equipment is checked before an installation. Collins pointed out "we can do a complete oil conversion job in less than 6 hours, without causing prolonged inconvenience to the homeowner." (Daily Record Photo)

Agromat Waste Converter Supplies Organic Fluid For Improving All Soils

Joseph H. Andre is dealer for the new revolutionary "AGROMAT" machine.

It is a simple, fast, efficient, patented machine for converting your waste materials, such as leaves, grass, garbage, weeds, trash, manure, and newspapers into fluid organic mulch to enrich your soil, produce bigger and better crops.

Few farmers have the facilities for properly preserving farm manures. The loss of the fertilizing values of manures is amazingly great. The manure of farm animals is rich in bacteria, hormones, nutrients, and contains more or less water. It breaks down in such a way as to give off objectionable gases and allow plant nutrients to drain off and become lost. In the raw state, manures are unbalanced and are not suitable to be used to feed growing plants. Unless the manure is carefully composed under strictly controlled conditions, it suffers great losses in nutrients.

The Agro-Mulch method first mixes the manure with water in the ratio of about 4 parts of water to one part of manure. The organic matter is disintegrated and assumes a homogenized state. So much air is incorporated that putrefaction is prevented, thus eliminating objectionable smells. This liquid manure may then be spread over the soil evenly.

Homogenized, aerated manure is quickly absorbed by the soil and fixed so that none of the nitrogen is lost in the form of gas. This homogenized manure is not to be confused with manure water which may be as unbalanced as raw manure itself. As a conservator of manure alone, the Agro-Mulcher must be considered as an absolute essential piece of farm equipment.

But manure may be short in supply. If that is the case, the Agromat is even more necessary as it enables the farmer to convert all kinds of farm wastes into an organic compost-mulch which is as good or may be better than most manures.

The Agromat will make sprayers and dusters unnecessary, as plants grown in soils rich in humus and well supplied with all the essential elements are relatively free from disease and insects.

Fluid Agro-Mulching represents a new agricultural practice revolutionary in the benefits it produces. For the first time in the history of agriculture, farm manures may be completely conserved.

Agro-Mulching is more important and represents a better agricultural practice than cultivating the soil. The Agromat is a piece of equipment specifically designed for soil conservation.

The F-A-M method adds nutrition, minerals and elements to the soil and builds up at the same time the humus content, the organic portion of the soil.

Life Expectancy Up

Harrisburg—An audited life table, recently constructed by the staff of the State Planning Board of the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, shows that the life expectancy of a Pennsylvanian born in 1950 had increased 4.21 years in the decade between 1940 and 1950. A person born in 1950 has an average life expectancy of 67.43 years as compared with 63.22 years in 1940.

Greater Grain Stocks

Harrisburg—Larger stocks of wheat and corn were being held in all Pennsylvania storage positions, including farms, this April 1 than a year earlier, the State Department of Agriculture announced following Federal-State surveys.

Anchoring Casters

Furniture casters can be prevented from falling out by filling the hole in the furniture leg with plastic wood or iron cement and then pushing the caster back in place. When the plastic wood or cement has hardened, the caster is there to stay.

Diamond T Trucks Are Heavy Duty

One of the most rugged and impressive looking trucks on the American road today, is the Diamond T Heavy-Duty Model 720.

This 6-wheel beauty easily hauls up to 50,000 pounds and has the particular advantage over most competition in having been designed as a complete unit of balanced components and with engineering worked out throughout the entire chassis for utmost flexibility in application.

The famous and internationally known Diamond T line is handled in this locality by Claude S. Cyphers, 548 Ann St., Stroudsburg.

Diamond T's Model 720 shows its superiority in high-speed inter-city hauling through all variations of temperatures, grades and mountain climbs . . . and, equally in logging and other off-highway operations.

As a conventional highway tractor, the R100 rear axle with "Veri-rate" springs is a common choice, providing ample load capacity with minimum rear-end weight; the Eaton 30,500 Series 2-speed axle is the preference for tractor-trailer operations where greater flexibility is desired.

A wide range of tandem axles is available in the six-wheel models. For detailed information and prices on the complete Diamond T line—

Giant Sheaves Being Built At Bethlehem

Bethlehem — The first of four giant sheaves for the new $6,000,000 vertical lift bridge to Welfare Island, New York, was exhibited at the Bethlehem Steel Company plant here recently before a group of 38 newspaper representatives from 13 area communities.

Representing The Daily Record were H. G. Heller, editor; Lowell H. Cross, director of advertising and Don Rayburn, classified advertising manager.

In addition to the newspaper representation the major wire services—Associated Press, United Press and International News Service—were represented.

The three-lane bridge, connecting Welfare Island and Queens, will span the east channel of the East River. It will afford speedier access to the 7,000-bed hospital on the island, where New York's aged and infirm are cared for.

Automobiles now reach Welfare Island by elevators from the Queensboro Bridge. The cumbersome elevators frequently cause traffic jams on the bridge when lines of automobiles form near the easterly end while waiting to be lowered to the island. This congestion has hampered the increasing vehicular flow over the Queensboro Bridge between Queens and Manhattan.

Patients began moving into the new hospital on the island this spring. The hospital's recreation facilities include a modern movie theater, radio and TV sets, canteen, and a beauty parlor for female guests.

Over the sheaves, which are placed in the towers of the bridge, pass cables carrying the 515-ton counterweights. The total weight of the two counterweights approximates the weight of the lift span.

Weighing 37 tons apiece, the sheaves are about 15 feet in diameter. In describing their manufacture, Lewis Fine, superintendent of the plant's weldment department, said that several methods of steelworking were used in making the component parts.

"The hubs were forged on a 2500-ton forging press at the Bethlehem plant and center-bored to an inside diameter of 22 inches," Fine said.

"For the web section, two rolled plates 1 1/2 in. thick and 7 ft. 3 in. wide were welded together and the cut-outs were made. Stiffener ribs of plate of the same thickness were welded inside the web to give it added strength.

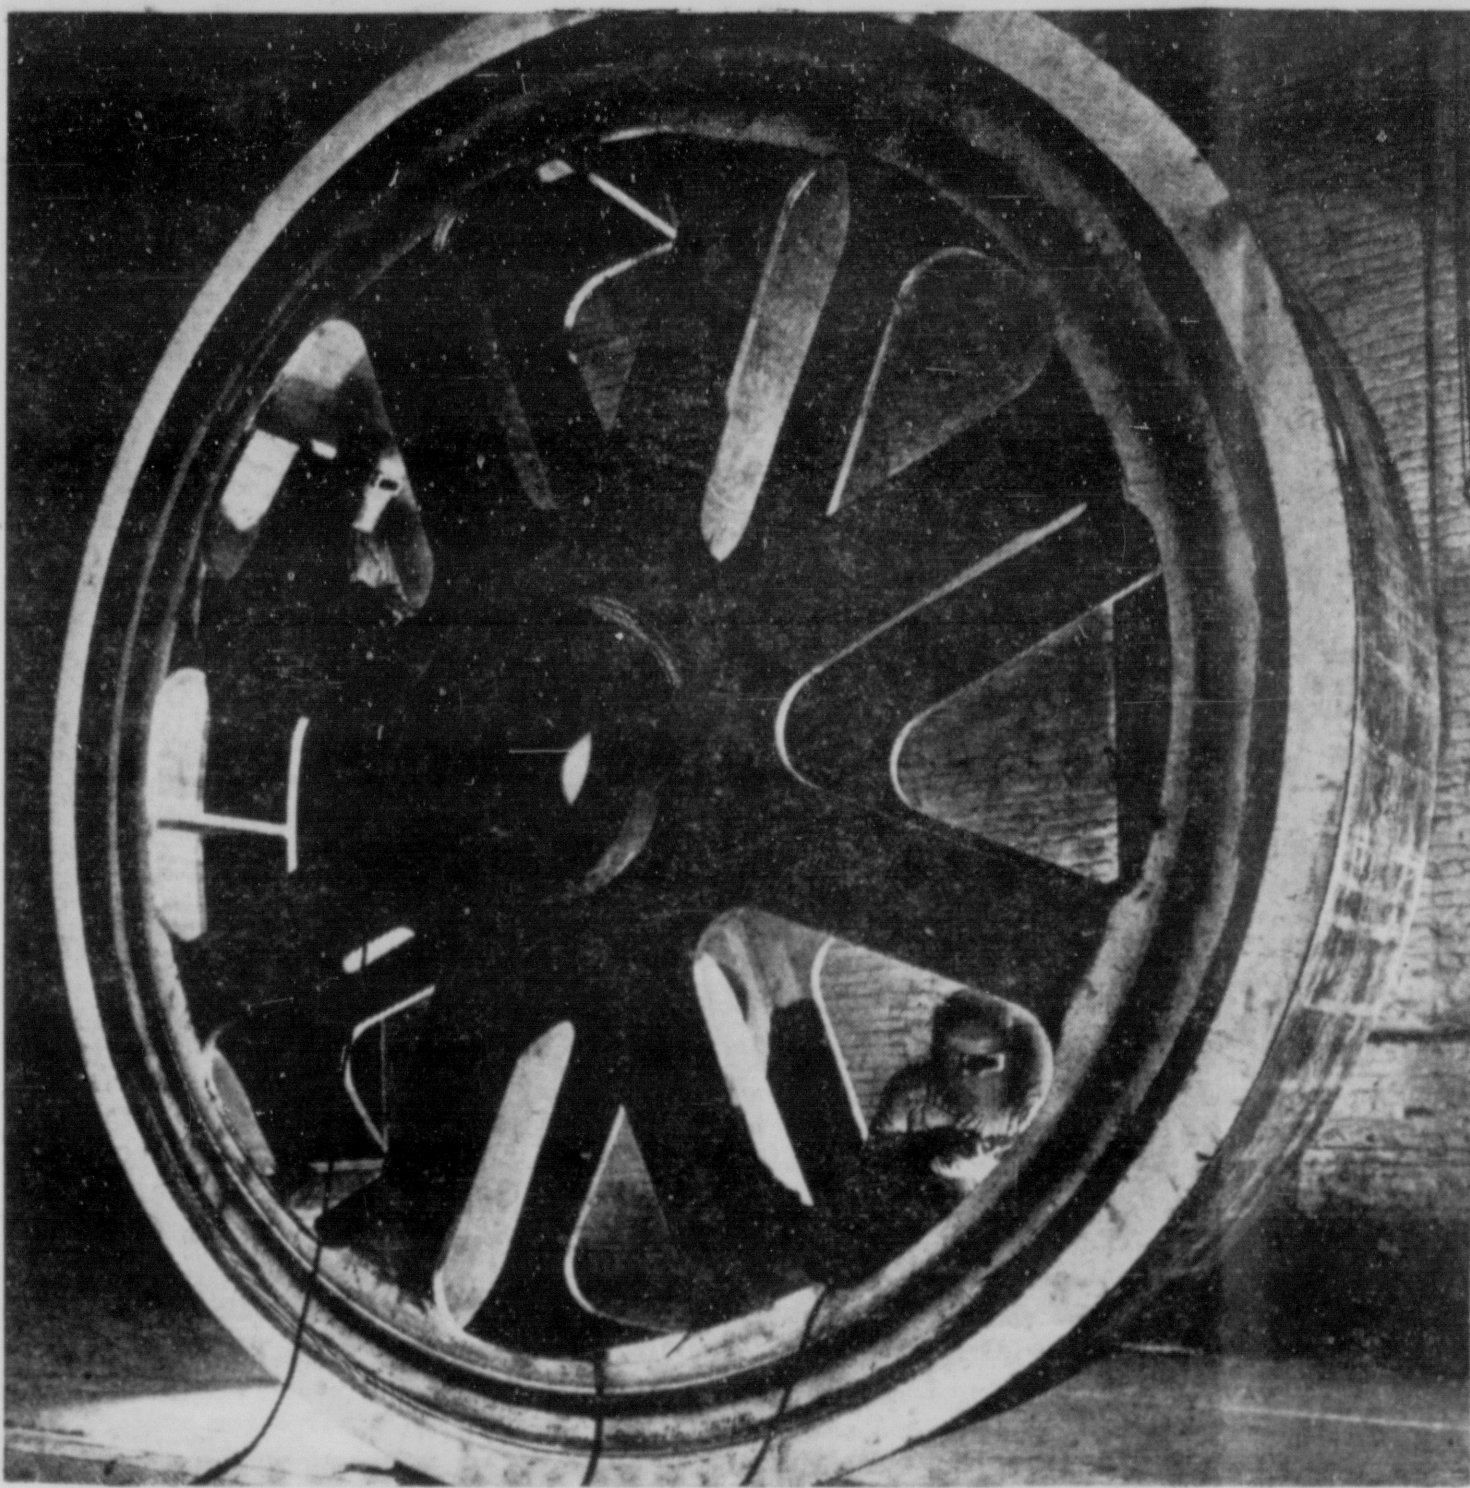

"The plates, as well as the rims of the sheaves, were rolled at Bethlehem's Sparrows Point, Md., plant. The rims are rolled plate 6 in. thick and about 3 ft. wide. Following shipment to Bethlehem plant, the rims were cold formed into semi-circular shape and built welded together to form a complete circle.

"Then the web plates, with back-up strips, were welded to the hub and the rim. Both the hub and the rim were preheated with gas burners to a minimum of 200 degrees and maintained at that temperature during welding to avoid cooling strain after welding. About 275 pounds of weld metal was used to fill the gap between the web and the rim.

"The pipe burner used to pre-heat the rim was made specially for the occasion. The burner comprises two semicircular pieces of 3 in. diameter pipe with two rows of holes for gas jets. The two halves of the burner were placed around the periphery of the rim and lighted.

"After welding, the sheaves are heat treated to relieve any stress set up in the welding process. The sheaves then move to a machine shop for finish machining and the cutting in the rim of 12 cable grooves, which are about 2 1/2 in. wide, to hold the counterweight cables."

Cork can be harvested from a cork oak only once in six to 10 years.

ONE OF FOUR GIANT sheaves being fabricated at Bethlehem Steel Company's Bethlehem plant for use in the new vertical lift bridge to New York's Welfare Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Fener entertained Mrs. Hazel Fener last Wednesday and Mrs. Orien Reish on Thursday. Recently they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dennis and the two families visited with Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bush that night. On Sunday they picnicked with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brewer, celebrating both Mr. Brewer's and Mrs. Fener's birthdays.

Mrs. Orien Reish visited Mrs. Lester Miller in Newton, N.J. last week. Also there were Mr. Samuel Yearick, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Benner and Miss Tessie Bartges. Miss Bartges was on her way to the pier where she was scheduled to sail to Naples, Italy. There she will teach children of naval officers. Her brother, Woodrow Bartages, preached at the Poplar Valley Church a few years ago after being released from a prisoner of war camp at Manila after World War II.

Misses Kathy, Jean and Sally Dennis spent last week as the guests of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hauser. On Sunday, with their parents, they enjoyed dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Snyder of Mt. Bethel.

Mrs. Earl Erdman and Mrs. Kenneth Schmidt called on Mrs. Claude Metzger who has been ill. Gene Reish, stationed at Fort Belvoir, Virginia, expects to spend many Sundays with relatives and friends here.

It is believed the horse was first domesticated about the third millennium B. C.

PENNSYLVANIA POWER & LIGHT COMPANY

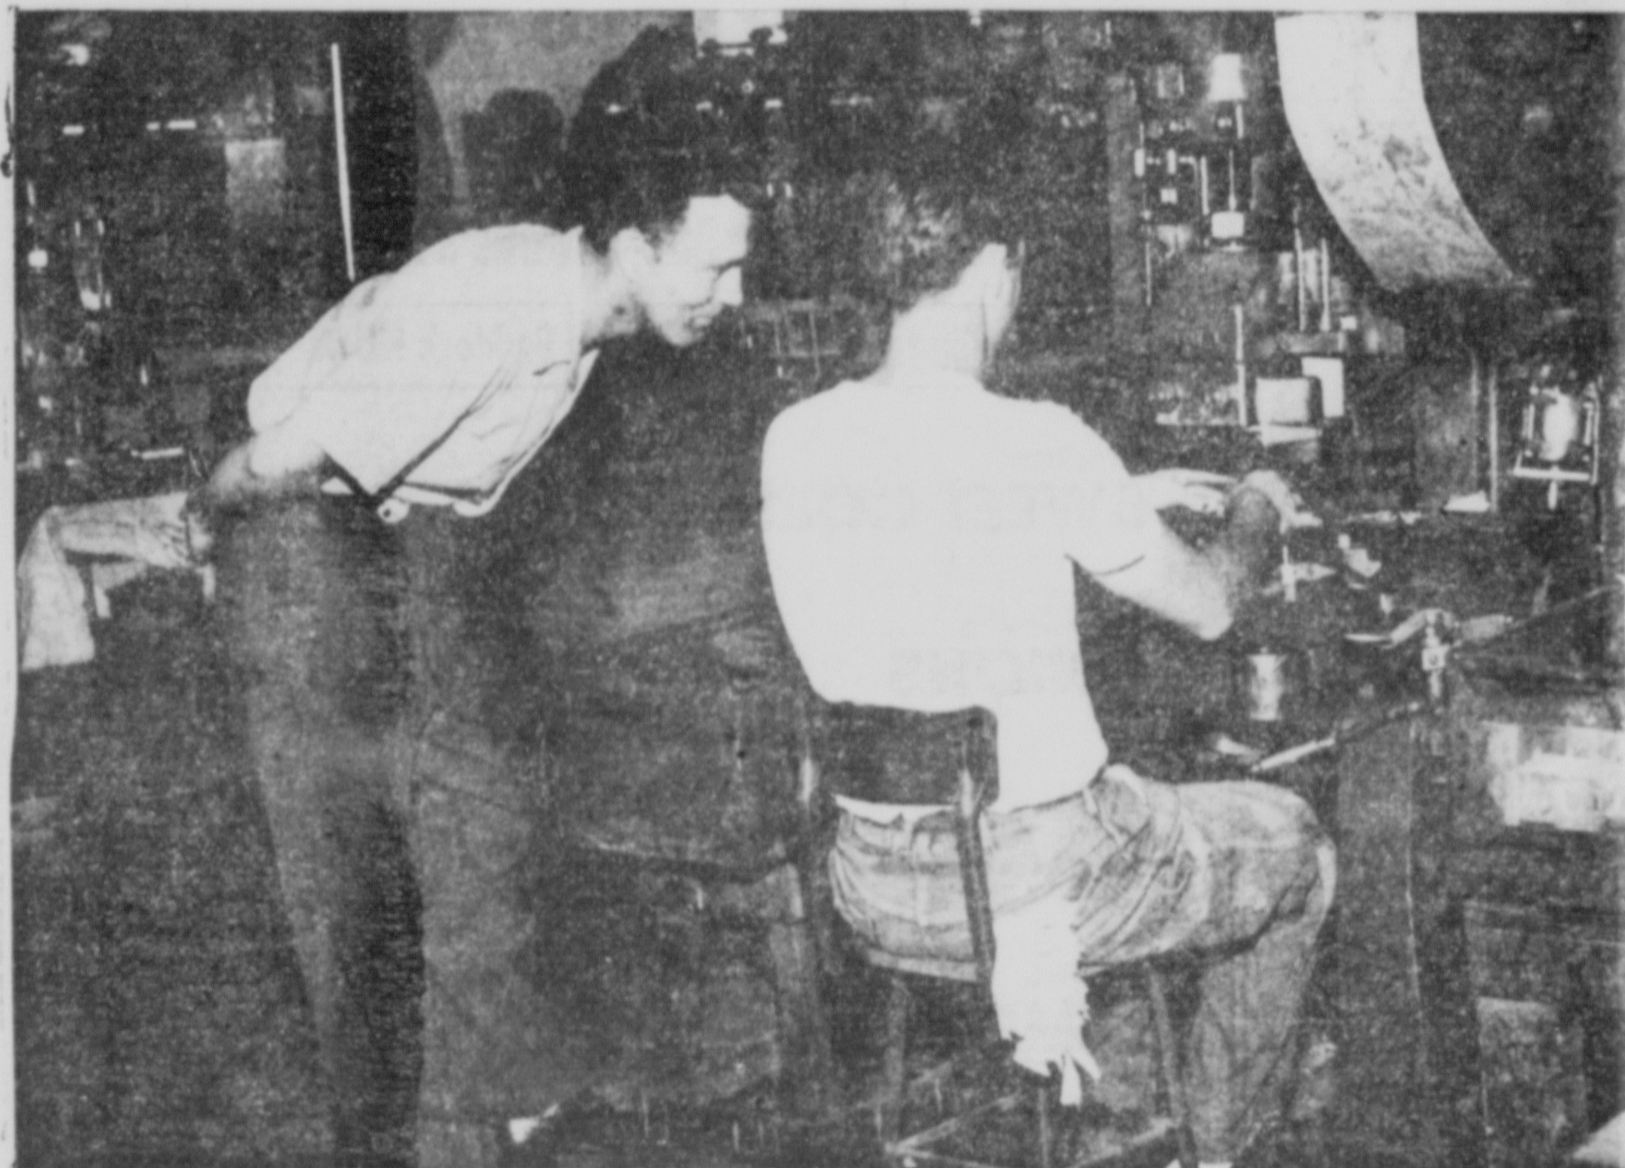

Review Of Art Metal's Ronson Lighter Production Line

RONSON ACCESSORIES are now readied for the market on a modern, streamlined production line in a light, airy room. While more efficient production is achieved, it is done with increased comfort to the workers. Women here are placing Ronson flints in packet holders. Production belt running behind panel in front of them carries them to packers at end of line. (Daily Record Photo)

MASTER CASES for Ronson lighters start here where blank pieces of metal are drawn into shape in a pressing operation. The seated operator drops a blank into position and the machine shapes half of a lighter case in a fraction of a second. (Daily Record Photo)

SHAPED MASTER CASES pass down the production line to undergo a similar pressing operation which produces hinge assemblies on each half the pressed cases. Nearby the small parts lighter assemblies are fashioned and the production flow lines goes to a soldering department. (Daily Record Photo)

QUICK AND ARTFUL HANDS take over the master cases, shells and small parts assemblies here as solder them in proper assembly pattern. Ten separate pieces are soldered into place to bring the master case up close to the finished product. Before final mechanical touches are added they go through a polishing department which brings up a brilliant finish. Some 85 polishers complete around 1,100 master cases a day. (Daily Record Photo)

FINISHED PRODUCTS from accessories on the top of the case to several types of men's and women's pocket lighters and a full line of case lighters are viewed in the main office display case by Louis A. Stoner, recently elected president of Ronson and J. H. Stoner, recently named general manager of Ronson's Art Metal Works, Inc. of Pennsylvania located in East Stroudsburg. (Daily Record Photo)

THE MAIL FRAUD MENACE

Gullible Americans Bilked Of Billions Of Dollars Yearly, Declare Postal Inspectors

Editor's Note: This is the first of two articles on America's billion-dollar fraud rackets.

By DAVID A. HELLER
(Central Press Correspondent)

Washington—“There is,” declared that observant student of human nature, Phileas T. Barnum, “a sucker born every minute.”

The late Mr. Barnum's conservative statement would be disputed by Uncle Sam's postal inspectors who guard (so far as that is possible) Americans from the fruits of their folly by stopping gyp operations from operating through the mails. There can't possibly be, the inspectors say, as many minutes as there are gullible Americans.

For the incredible fact is that con games and mail frauds are by far the largest source of illicit revenue for the underworld. Nobody knows how much the take is but it runs into billions of dollars a year.

Mail fraud artists are the elite of America's underworld. No strong-arm thugs, they! Most are exceptionally intelligent and some are brilliant. All are highly ingenious. Many pose under the guise of respectability.

Take, for example, the purveyors of phony “bust developing” creams which were nationally advertised. Thousands of flat-chested girls who desired to be swifter swimmers were bilked by the worthless nostrums. (The same outfit also peddled worthless “reducing creams” for the busts of ladies over-developed in that department.)

Or take the Washington, D. C., lonely hearts lady who carried on an extensive correspondence with hundreds of men in 27 states and proposed marriage to most of them. She bilked scores of gullible guys out of money, watches, engagement rings, furniture and many other presents. When one of her swains pressed her too hard to be married, she simply had a confederate send him a telegram saying that she had “passed on.” Exit sucker.

Interestingly enough, the lady was married all the time. However, her letter-writing activities were OK with her husband, a man also in the lonely hearts racket. He wrote love letters to scores of women. Postal inspectors put both out of business and behind bars.

From the cradle to the grave—literally—crooks are busy cudgeling their brains on ways to swindle you out of money. The sums involved vary, ranging from a dollar for a worthless item to your life savings in a phony stock or real estate deal.

Kellersville

Mrs. Gerald Metzgar

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Metzgar and son Eddie of Kellersville and granddaughter Madlyn Metzgar of Pen Argil were Tuesday night callers of the former's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Duke and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Metzgar.

William Fabel and son Billy recently spent the weekend at the Senator Hotel, at Atlantic City.

Mrs. Maria Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Snyder and daughter Lonnie of Brodheadville recently spent the day at the zoo in Philadelphia. Mrs. Glenn Snyder is now a patient at the General Hospital in East Stroudsburg where she was operated on for appendicitis.

Mrs. Charles Praetorius and daughter Beverly and Mrs. Stewart Fabel spent Sunday at Leona Park in Pen Argil.

Recent supper guests of Mrs. Stewart Fabel and family were: Mrs. Viola Ryan, of Calif.; Mrs. Frances Waas, Mrs. Marge Hardman, Mrs. William Hamilton, David Sheridan and Peter Sheridan of Patterson, N. J. The latter remained to spend some time with the Fabels.

Miss Florence Fabel and Sidney Jean Hiller returned home after spending several days in Philadelphia, N. J., visiting the former's sister Mrs. Emma Serfas and her nephews and nieces.

Mrs. Maria Snyder, Mrs. Walter Wescott and son Walter and Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Snyder of Kresgeville motored to East Greenville Sunday to call on the former's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Parsons and family.

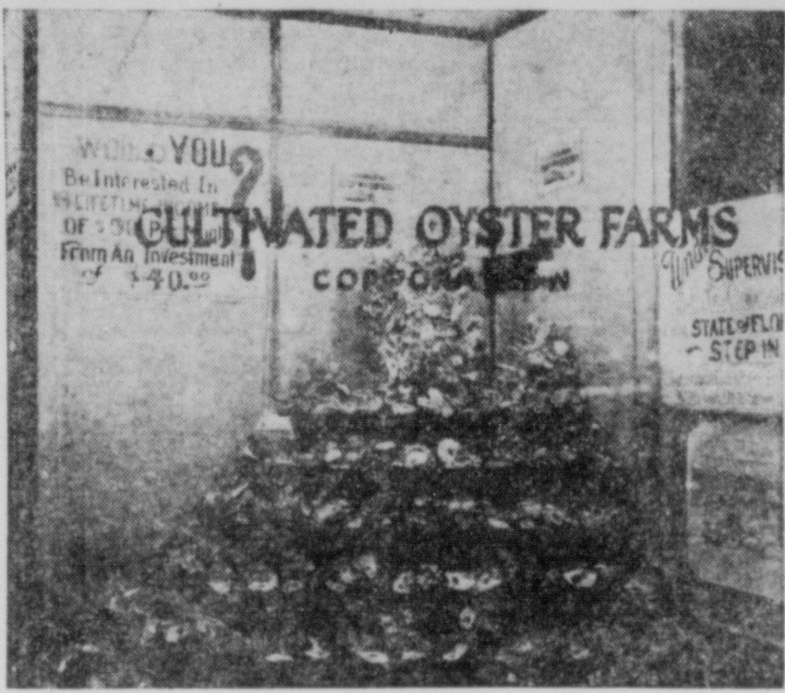

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Duke and sons and Mrs. Joseph Metzgar were Thursday night callers of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Metzgar and family at Kellersville.

Mrs. Maria Snyder spent Sunday night at McMichael's.

Mrs. Stewart Fabel and Peter Sheridan were Wednesday night callers of Mr. and Mrs. William Hess and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warnick and Mrs. Ruth Warnick in Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Ralph Beers and son Ernest of Brodheadville spent Friday afternoon with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Metzgar and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Metzgar and sons LeRoy and Grant were Wednesday night callers of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Metzgar.

This outfit offered money-hungry but stupid folk a lifetime income of $50 a month for just an original investment of $40. They cleaned up until postal inspectors blew the whistle on them.

The variety of fraudulent schemes leaves the observer a little numb. These include bogus stocks, religious, charitable, matrimonial and health rackets, fictitious estates (the boys want money for “expenses”) to settle that estate long-lost “Uncle Harry” left you that’s going to make you rich), fake lotteries, insurance rackets—you name it and the postal inspectors can pull a score of cases on it from their office.

A shrewd dodge was utilized by one company which offered a pair of pedigreed rabbits for sale at $50 the duo. Their advertising stated that the company would buy back at high prices any offspring produced by the pair, thereby enabling the customer to make a handsome profit on his investment.

The catch here was, when the bunnies were sent, they were both of the same sex, thereby making sure that there would be no baby bunnies. The buyer was invariably left with a couple of high-priced hoppers on his hands.

Some frauds run into huge sums of money. For instance, the $27 million fake lottery promoted by a Kansas City mob. The country was flooded with bogus tickets on a non-existent drawing. Prizes were listed as $27 million.

Nobody knows exactly how many tickets were unloaded on duped buyers, but the total was fantastic. Not a drawing was ever held, nor a prize given. Postal inspectors nabbed the crooks, but others are constantly at work.

The take on fake lotteries is estimated at hundreds of millions yearly. Many lottery tickets sold

Chinese Artist Is Guest Of O'Neills; Her Painting To Be Presented To President

The Republic of China could not have chosen a more charming embodiment of their desire for Sino-American Amity, than Madame Athena Suntoze Hsu who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald O'Neill at their home on Thomas St.

Madame Hsu is an artist, whose painting "Song of Liberty" with its triumphant American eagle is to be presented to President Eisenhower by Chinese Ambassador J. V. Wellington Koo in the near future.

To her the painting represents the freedom which America stands for, and "I have heard its song," she said.

Freedom is more than a catchword to Madame Hsu, born into an aristocratic Chinese family whose home country was Anhui. She was educated in Chinese literature and arts at the Faculty of Arts, National Central University, which was formerly located at Nanking. There she combined traditional Chinese art with a study of Western oil painting and sketching.

She emigrated with the Chinese Republican Government to Formosa and is now professor of the Department of Fine Arts at Formosa Teachers College. She has been granted a year's leave of absence to observe Western art and artists and has been in this country since January, 1953.

Nineteen-year-old Mary Theresa Wu, who has completed her sophomore year at Misericordia College, and who has spent much of her summers with the O'Neills in Stroudsburg, is the daughter of a very close friend of Madame Hsu in Formosa. That is how they both came to be guests at the O'Neill home this weekend.

Madame Hsu has had an opportunity to see a lot of America since she arrived here in January, and finds the friendliness of its people fully as stimulating as its art, she said.

She has just returned from visiting General and Mrs. Chenault in Louisiana. Mrs. Chenault was a friend and former pupil in China. At the Chenault home, Madame Hsu had an opportunity to renew her friendship with Ambassador Koo, and with the president of Formosa Teachers College.

Although Madame Hsu has been offered a research fellowship at Columbia University, the president of her college was insistent that she return to Formosa at the end of her year's leave of absence.

The Teacher's College in Formosa is the most important college there, she explained, since they regard the teacher as the most important influence in molding the new democracy on Formosa. It is the only college on the island offering the art degree, and Madame Hsu numbers Madame Chiang Kai-shek among her pupils.

But it is not as a teacher but as an artist in her own right that Madame Hsu has won wide acclaim on her travels. She stopped over to have a one-man show at Manila which was very successful and recently had a one-man show at the Capellier Gallery on 57th Street in New York City, sponsored by the Sino-American Amity association.

She will leave this week for Europe where she will have an exhibition in Paris before she returns to Formosa.

She had some of her water colors with her at the O'Neills, delicate studies of birds, flowers and mountains with the muted pastels and brilliant Chinese reds blending in pictures of charm and serenity. There were also two unusual paintings of an Oriental Madonna and Child.

To Madame Hsu, the chief difference between Oriental and Western art is in its mood. Chinese painting is more "more quiet," she explained. "It comes not from painting while you are watching a scene but from what you remember in your mind and in your imagination."

For this explanation she had to call on her young friend, Mary Theresa, who is an amazing personality in her own right, to express that thought that Chinese art was a matter of "emotion recollected in tranquillity."

However, Madame Hsu's Eng-

Chipperettes Meet Today At Hester Home

The Chipperettes 40 H. Club met on Tuesday at Diane Colvin's home on Chipperfield Drive. After the business meeting, the girls sewed on buttons under the supervision of Mrs. George Colvin.

Games were conducted by the game leader, Jane Layton. Refreshments were served to Sharon Fabel, Jane Layton, Diane Colvin, and Joan Hester.

The next meeting will be held this afternoon at 2 at Joan Hester's.

Daughter Born In Germany

A cable from Germany brought to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sutton of East Stroudsburg the announcement of the birth of a daughter to their son and daughter-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. Harry L. Sutton on July 26, in Worms, Germany.

The baby has been named Marguerite Ellen. Lt. Sutton expects to remain in Germany with his family for the next 14 months.

lish was quite adequate to express her firm conviction that modern Chinese art and modern Western art were drawing closer together. And she also was quite convinced that art in both groups depends not upon geography but upon the personality of the artist.

During her visit in Monroe County had she seen anything that reminded her of home? One home nestled in the hills beyond the lake at Skytop—that had definitely reminded her of China.

They had all been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Christie Shall at Delaware Water Gap on Sunday night, and while charcoal-broiled steak on the terrace was not a typical Chinese meal, the evening that followed with a study of her paintings and the piano music of young Mary Theresa Wu, who is majoring in music at Misericordia, could have no boundaries.

A typical Chinese dinner, though, was what Madame Hsu and Mary Theresa arranged for the O'Neills last night. It had taken three shopping trips to town and a lot of substitutions, but the results delighted the whole household. Chicken, and shrimp, lima beans, greens, and stuffed peppers, each with their own distinctive Chinese flavor, combined in a memorable dinner.

Madame Hsu returns to New York today, and will leave soon for Europe. Her painting of "Song of Liberty" is not the only memory she will leave behind her in the interest of Sino-American Amity.

If you have a long narrow kitchen, with more wall than floor space, you may find a drop-leaf shelf is a big help.

S., D. Of L. Induct Heads For New Term

Monroe Council No. 131, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, held their installation of officers recently for the coming term of six months. Tamson Kohl, deputy state councilor, of Bangor, was in charge, assisted by Lillian Hughes, of the same place.

The following officers were installed: Councilor, Martha Smith; associate councilor, Emma Dail; vice councilor, Mary Brown; associate vice councilor, Elizabeth Strohl; Rec. Sec., Doris Craver; associate rec. sec., Elsie Couterman; Fin. Sec., Mary McManis; treasurer, Kenneth Adams.

Also Guide, Mary Kunkle; In-door maid, Ruth Ruster; outside maid, Blanche Shaffer; Rep. to state council, Mary Kunkle; alternate, Kathryn Couterman; members, Marian Teleski, Ruth Ruster and Blanche Shaffer, Jr.; councilor, Kathryn Couterman, Jr.; ex-associate councilor, Marian Teleski.

As the outgoing councilor and her successor exchanged chairs, Kathryn Couterman released officers and committees who had served under her, thanking them for their assistance.

Martha Smith, newly installed councilor named the following committees to serve during her term: Relief Committee for Stroudsburg, Ruth Warnick, Marian Teleski and Kenneth Adams; for East Stroudsburg, Emma Dail and Martha Smith; entertainment, Kathryn Couterman, Elizabeth Strohl and Marian Teleski; Kitchen, Elsie Couterman, Mary Kunkle and Blanche Shaffer; ways and means, Ruth Ruster, Marian Teleski, Doris Craver, Martha Smith, Kenneth Adams and Blanche Shaffer; reporter, Kathryn Couterman.

On July 18 Mary Brown and Kathryn Couterman motored to Allentown where they witnessed the installation of officers. On July 22 a group consisting of Kathryn Couterman, Elsie Couterman, Mary Brown, Mary Kunkle, Ruth Warnick and Marian Teleski motored to Bangor also for installation ceremonies for Eight Star Council, 216.

Kenneth Adams, Stroudsburg, deputy state councilor, was in charge of the inductions and addressed the groups on work of the order.

A delegation of five members of Pride of Struth Council, Lehigh, visited the Stroudsburg group on July 21. A meeting of the past officers club followed the meeting.

The council recently enjoyed their annual picnic at East Stroudsburg playground with 25 in attendance with their families. A picnic dinner was enjoyed, games were played and the children won a prize.

The next meeting of the council will be held at Odd Fellows Hall, Stroudsburg, Tuesday, Aug. 4, at 8 p.m.

Be extra careful, in hot weather, to refrigerate leftover cooked foods as soon as they are taken from the dining table.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

One of the secrets of Chinese art may be in the brushes tapered to a hairline point for those delicate brush strokes that remind you somehow of the landscapes you see in your most pleasant dreams.

But what I'm much more interested in is the secret which keeps the Chinese artist looking so young. She seemed at most but a few years older than her young friend, Mary Theresa, and Mary was 19.

But Madame Hsu must be older than that to have accomplished so much and to have gained such wide recognition for her teaching and her paintings. Maybe some of that "more quiet" feeling they have in their paintings also carries over into their own lives. Anyway, she was charming.

And I can testify that painting alone doesn't keep you young. In fact my painting has added whole patches of white hair—not because of the unquiet life but because the painting I did was a ceiling. I realize that the general idea is to put the point on the ceiling and not on your head, but the law of gravity enters in there somewhere and until that's repealed I can't seem to manage.

Next ceiling I tackle is going to be bright red. I've always admired red heads, and that seems to be the only way I'll ever be one.

Garden Scene Of Jory, Ott July Nuptial

Bangor—Miss Geraldine Ruth Ott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton H. Ott, of Bangor RD2, and John Horwell Jory, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horwell Jory, of 407 Harding Ave., Pen Argyl, were wedded at a mid-summer wedding Saturday afternoon.

The ceremony was performed in the garden at the home of the parents of the bride in the presence of many relatives and friends by Rev. J. O. Reagle, D. D., pastor of Christ Evangelical Reformed Church, Stone Church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attended by Miss Madge Felker as maid-of-honor, Miss Jean Olt as bridesmaid, Miss Patricia Olt, sister of the bride, as junior bridesmaid and Bonnie Ott, another sister, as flower girl.

The best man was William S. Jory, twin brother of the bridegroom, and Budd E. Ott, brother of the bride. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Augustus Garis.

The bride was attired in a waltz length gown of imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin and shoulder length veil attached to a headpiece of orange blossoms. Her gown was styled with a long sleeve lace, reding-got over a strapless bodice and a bouffant skirt of tulle over satin. She carried a satin Elsie on which was a white orchid and streamers of carnations and baby breath.

The maid-of-honor wore a strapless waltz length gown of yellow lace and nylon tulle over taffeta with matching stole and headpiece of orange blossoms and carried a nosegay of green and yellow carnations.

The bridesmaids were similarly attired. Miss Oliver's being mint green and she carried yellow carnations. That of Miss Ott was yellow and she carried green carnations. Both had headpieces of orange blossoms. The flower girl wore a similarly styled dress in mint green and carried a basket of yellow carnations and rose petals.

Following a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, New England states and Canada, they will reside at the Warner apartments, S. First St., this place.

The bride was graduated from Bangor High School and is employed as secretary for the Portland Sand and Gravel Co. The Cemetery Association Is Organized

Tannersville—A campaign to clear and care for the cemetery of the Tannersville Methodist Church began a month ago by the Sunday School has resulted in the organization of a Cemetery Association, composed of members and friends of the church.

At the meeting last night the pastor, Rev. LeRoy Bernard was elected president; George Raish, secretary; and Mrs. F. B. Howell, treasurer. A charter, drawn up by the pastor, was approved and provides for the care and upkeep of the cemetery.

The work was started by the Sunday School and a campaign by Mrs. Esther Shaffer and A. H. Raish to raise funds for a lawn mower was so successful that they were able to purchase an electric mower and with the money left over launch the new Cemetery Association to insure its continued care.

Other members of the committee include O. C. Alger, Russell Barry, Lewis Tucker, Miles Dailley, F. B. Howell and A. J. Christman.

Graber, Graver Reunion Date

The Graber-Graver Reunion will be held on Sunday, Aug. 2, at Saucon Park, Bethlehem, at 1:00 p.m.

There will be an address by a speaker. Programs and games will follow the business meeting. Officers of the group are: Russell A. H. Graber, president; Henry Althouse, vice president; Russell J. J. Graber, secretary; William F. Graver, asst. secretary; Fred Gangewer, treasurer; Miss Fredia Graber and Myron Craver, historians.

Tuna on my hands and a clock on my mind! — the handsome, antique "Grandfather" of walnut, inlaid with cherry and mother of pearl, that Tommy Rinehart and Ralph Warner were adjusting yesterday in our center aisle. What an old fellow this "Grandfather" is, with his face stunningly decorated with metallic touches, and the sun peering over his shoulder. Can't help but stand in awe of a clock that's ticked away as many minutes, hours, and days as this one has. . . . I'm not sure that men are as fond of wallets as we women are, but there's something about money containers, both empty and otherwise, that most of us find irresistible. The latest line of these, bearing the Lord Francis label, may be seen in our center aisle, and will undoubtedly prove popular with souvenir hunters who want something appropriate to take home from their vacation. In leather, many of these have Indian faces of metal as trim. Others are equally in tune with the spirit of the Pocahontas. Prices are surprisingly sane—98c and $1.39. Yes, there'll be money left in IN those wallets! . . . Spice Islands herbs and seasonings have enjoyed a wonderful following for a number of years here at Wyckoff's, and yesterday a great many persons stopped by to taste some of the delicious snacks, salad dressings, and sauces prepared by their representative who is spending the next week or so with us. It is my hope to have her on the radio this morning at 9:45, at which time she will tell you how to perk up summer tables in a manner as simple and inexpensive as it is delightful. Beau Monde seasoning is just one of the new taste treats to which I have been introduced, and what a spread one can make of creamed cheese that has been flavored with this, and shredded green onions. HMMMMM! I'm not sure just how Spice Islands counselors would have us make hamburger and spaghetti sauces, but I know this, those sauces are out of this world. Everyone who enjoys good taste in living, is invited to come in to our store, and learn about food preparation the Spice Islands way. There's no obligation to look, sniff, ask questions or sample. And you can have a Spice Islands recipe book all your own, if you want to try some of this magic in your own kitchen. . . . Tommy Rinehart celebrated a birthday this past weekend and treated his Wyckoff friends to strawberry shortcake yesterday. Funny, but he doesn't look a year older since we saw him Saturday!

There's one great inconvenience in no longer having the bay window at the front of our store. It's impossible for the switchboard operator to check her clock with the town clock at closing time, unless, of course, she hangs by her toes from the window sill. . . . Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

A new baby, a girl this time, in the Bob Schick household, was credited by many for Bob's outstanding play against Tannersville on Sunday. The Reeder's center-fielder is now the father of three children, two boys and a girl. Bob led Reeder's to a 7-6 verdict over Tannersville in a 14-inning Pocono Mountains League marathon on Sunday. Schick's home run was one of the big blows of the game and his four other safeties in six trips to the plate were also major factors in the important victory for Reeder's. The loss may prove very costly to Tannersville.

Walter Slog, pitcher for Lake Harmony, is a resident of the Mauch Chunk area and is the same hurler who worked for Bangor, North Atlantic League a few years back. Slog also has been in the higher minor leagues. John Esrang, Lake Harmony catcher, is well known for his hitting ability in the Mauch Chunk area and is becoming equally well known for his plate power in this area since coming into the Pocono Mountains League. Esrang had nine hits in 10 trips to the plate in Sunday's doubleheader against Pocono Lake.

Both the Barrett Little League Association and the Evans-Blitz American Legion Post have been served with papers to attend a legal hearing in the near future. There are two people who would like to stop the construction of an official Little League field in Mauch Chunk. Two complaints by the Monroe County Softball League were filed with the use of the East Stroudsburg Junior High school field for at least the balance of the season. Scoring will not be a problem in the Pocono Mountains League.

At least two people who saw box scores of games in which they took part last Sunday couldn't believe that it was the same contest. The complaints came from two different games, in which the opposing box scores compared favorably to night and day. Congratulations are in order today for the Newfoundland Bears who clinched the Pocono Mountains Association pennant on Sunday. The Bears finished in a three-way tie for the top spot in last season's final race. Jim Driebe, Tannersville reserve infielder-outfielder, deserves plenty of credit for going behind the plate in the last two innings of Sunday's battle with Reeder's during the last two innings. Jim had never served as a catcher previously.

The director at Barrett Play-ground is a brother to Bill Frear, manager of the Pocono A. C. entry in the Blue Mountain League. Last night's action in the Pocono Mountains Little League will be held today because of rain at game time yesterday. Art Wall, the long ball hitting pro who is carrying the Pocono Manor name on the pro golf trail won $900 in the recent Kansas City Open with a final score of 276. Wall is a resident of Honesdale, when not on the winter and summer golf trail.

Last night's meeting of the Pocono Mountains League produced the right answer in this writer's humble opinion. The circuit decided to reinstate Alden "Red" Fetherman and to declare Leo Romansavage eligible for the balance of the campaign. No games had to be forfeited and all lines will be returned to the club that made the payment. The game between Tannersville and Barrett that caused all the excitement has been ordered rescheduled for the near future. The meeting called in an effort to keep everyone happy appears to have reached its goal.

Approximately half of the teams have been flirting with trouble all season by the manner in which they were procuring players. This column pointed out on at least two occasions that many players were moving from one roster to another in an illegal manner. The movements because so commonplace that some sort of settlement had to be reached. Reports coming from the grapevine reveal that one team in the circuit was ready to blow the lid off the circuit if it was forced to forfeit several of its games this season. It was also good to hear that Elmer Christine, Monroe County's District Attorney and legal advisor to the Pocono Mountains League, and Warren "Mag" Loney have been asked to draw up new by-laws.

The new by-laws will be presented to the league for approval at the circuit's September meeting. All the player troubles seem to be settled at this point and I sincerely believe that the circuit will take steps to see that a similar problem never comes to the front again. League officials acted wisely in smoothing over the situation this time as action according to the by-laws could have stirred up enough protest to completely break up the league for the present season at least. Everything seems to be bright by the majority of clubs at the present time.

A portable lighting system will be used on Thursday, August 13, when West End and Ansonia play at Gilbert. The game is scheduled to get underway at 8:30 p.m.

Local Loop Settles Player Problems

Truce Doesn't Change Status Of Baseball

New York (AP)—The end of the shooting in Korea does not mean any earlier return to baseball uniforms for the half a hundred major league players in military service. The state of emergency still exists. The Pentagon in Washington says there will be no immediate cutback in the size of the armed forces. Ball players, like other GIs, can be expected to serve their two-year hitch.

However, a survey shows that a majority of the big name players now serving Uncle Sam will be back on the diamond next year, many of them in time for spring training.

The most famous, Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, gets his official discharge from the Marine Corps today.

Others already out of service or with releases pending include Carl Olson, Red Sox outfielder; Vernon Law, pitcher for Pittsburgh and Eric Palen, hurler for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Two other Brooklyn pitchers, big Don Newcombe and Joe Landrum, get out in February. The New York Giants' flashy center-fielder, Willie Mays, is scheduled to leave the service next May.

The New York Yankees' second baseman, Gerry Coleman, is to be excused in October. He is among those who have been serving close action in Korea. So is the other Yankee infielder, Bobby Brown.

Brown ordinarily would be slated for release, but as a rookie who got some of his schooling on government time, he could be kept in service. Pitcher Tom Morgan of the Yankees will get out of uniform the middle of next summer.

Cartier Suffers Upset Defeat

Brooklyn (AP)—Garth Cartier of Salt Lake City celebrated his 22nd birthday last night with an upset 10 round decision over Walter Carlier of New York in the televised main event at Eastern Parkway Arena.

Cartier, who weighed 161½, was a 12 to five underdog but he banged his more experienced rival at will in the last two rounds to win a unanimous verdict. Cartier weighed 161½.

Judge Joe Eppy gave the Utah boy the fight seven rounds to three. Referee Barney Felix saw it six to three. Cartier, with one even, while Judge Joe Agnello scored it even on rounds but gave it to Cartier on points, seven to six.

In winning his first fight in the east, Cartier had Carlier in trouble in the ninth with overhead rights to the head and left hooks to the body. Two strong rights to the head near the end of the round left the New Yorker staggering at the bell.

Cartier kept up his assault through the 10th, working steadily in close with his right hand and with left hooks to the head.

Cartier was cut slightly above the left eye in the third round but it didn't bother him.

Little League Presents Slate

Two scheduled baseball games in the Pocono Mountains Little League were washed out the books by rain. The circuit will present the same contests today in an effort to beat the weatherman.

Senators Approves New Commissioner

Harrisburg, (AP)—The Senate yesterday confirmed unanimously Gov. John S. Fine's appointment of Frank Wiener as a member of the State Athletic Commission.

Wiener, a former chairman of the Commission, replaces John "O'S" DeGross, who died recently. The post pays $7,000 a year.

Penn-Stroud Downs Bankers Despite Besecker's Home Run

Larry Besecker's grand slam home run wasn't enough last night as Penn-Stroud Hotel took the measure of the National Bank, 5-7, in a Stroudsburg Little League game on the circuit's official field.

Besecker unloaded his big blow in the home half of the fourth inning, but Penn-Stroud was leading 8-2 at the time. The hard hitting outfielders swat put the Bankers close to the bottom for the first time in the ball game.

The winning aggregation scored four times in the first inning and came back with three in the second to hold a 7-2 advantage at that point.

Penn-Stroud put the game on ice by scoring singletons in the third and sixth while the Bankers picked up their final run in the sixth.

The contest featured seven errors, three by the winning club and one by the National Bank.

Penn-Stroud returns to action today against league leading Peoples Coal, at 6:15 p.m. on the same field.

Box score follows:

Milwaukee Runs Wild Over Giants

Milwaukee, (AP)—Young Eddie Mathews crashed two home runs over the rightfield fence last night, one with the bases loaded, as the Milwaukee Braves crushed New York, 13-0, before 28,800 paid fans in the opener of a 19-game home stand.

Miller Leads Qualifying Round

Chicago, (AP)—Chicagoan Peter Miller Jr., fired a four-under-par 36-32 68 yesterday to lead a group of 26 swingers who qualified for the men's amateur division of the All-American Golf Tournament at Tam O'Shanter.

Williams To Rejoin Red Sox Today After Release By Marines

Washington (AP)—Ted Williams will be released from the Marine Corps today and go right to Boston to rejoin the Red Sox, but he's a bit afraid that he might hurt the club if he gets back into the lineup too soon.

Ted hasn't swung a bat in well over a year but he's eager to play ball as soon as possible.

That could be tonight when Boston opens a home stand against the Chicago White Sox. Chances are, however, Williams won't be used for a while even as a pinch hitter.

Doctors at the Naval Hospital in suburban Bethesda, Md., gave Ted a complete bill of health yesterday after he had undergone treatment for nearly a month for an ear and nose ailment he picked up as a jet pilot in Korea.

world could I work out?"

Cronin, reached in Boston, said he doesn't know a thing about the plans for Williams. Ted said he has talked to Cronin on the telephone but that nothing definite was established.

Reds Crush White Sox At Cooperstown

Cooperstown, N. Y., (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds bombed inept Chicago White Sox pitching for 10 runs in the sixth inning yesterday on the way to a 16-5 victory in a weird exhibition game at Doubleday Field in the shadow of the Hall of Fame.

The 7,964 who watched the loosely played contest saw 27 hits rattled around the place where baseball was invented in a new high scoring game of the annual series.

Willard Marshall hit a three-run homer for the Redlegs in the big sixth inning attack on Bob Keegan and Saul Rogovin. Luis Aloma, fourth and most effective White Sox pitcher, homered in the 8th and Ed Stewart slammed one into the crowd for a homer in the ninth.

Doubles

Ground rule doubles rolled into the benches all afternoon in the static game. Once "Rocky" White Sox third baseman, tripped over the bag and fell flat while trying to catch an outfield throw. Another time Freddie Marsh, who was playing second at the moment, turned on his ankle after catching a routine grounder to miss an easy out. Just to complicate matters, the Cincy runner made the turn to second after rounding the bag and was out anyway.

Manager Paul Richards of the Sox poured everybody in the lineup, playing a catcher at first base in the last four innings. He rested most of his regulars after the early innings. Rodgers Hornsby of Cincy stuck with his starters most of the way, with the exception of Gus Bell, who came out in the first.

Scale Set For Title Fight Seats

New York (AP)—The International Boxing Club yesterday set up a $5 to $30 ticket scale for the heavyweight title fight between champion "Rocky" Marciano and Roland LaStarza at the Polo Grounds September 24.

Ringside

James Norris, IBC president, said ringside seats will sell for $30. Tickets have not yet gone on sale but the IBC is accepting reservations with certified checks or money orders.

Stengel Disappointed In Play Of Yankees On Western Trip

New York, (AP)—You would get the impression that Manager Casey Stengel wasn't exactly happy with the play of his New York Yankees on their recent road trip.

Said Casey yesterday:

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST

DRAGONFLIES
(ALSO CALLED DARNING NEEDLES, SHAKEDOCTORS, ETC.), COMMONLY SEEN HOVERING OVER MANY WATERS IN SUMMER ARE THE INSECT WORLD'S HAWKS.

NYMPH JET PROPELS ITSELF BY EJECTING FAST SPIRITS OF WATER FROM A TAIL VENT TO PREY UPON OTHER INSECTS AND EVEN SMALL MINNOWS. THUS EXPOSED, IT FORMS A MUCH LARGER PAST OF DIET TO GAME FISH THAN THE WINGED ADULT. FISH IMITATION OR HOOKED-NYMPH DEEP IN THIS ACTION WHERE ADULTS ABOUND.

COLLECT NYMPHS FROM BAKINGS OF MUD, WEEDS AND LEAVES ON THE BOTTOM OF SHALLOW Coves, ETC. KEEP IN JARS OF WATER.

Senators Quit On Byrne

Washington, (AP)—The Washington Senators yesterday became the fourth American League club to give up on pitcher Tommy Byrne. The 33-year-old lefthander was sold to Charleston of the American Association for an undisclosed sum.

One Safety

Tommy appeared in six games, five as a starter, and achieved a record with Washington of 6-5. He previously had a 2-0 mark with Chicago.

Byrne, touted as a strong pinch hitter, got one hit in 17 tries for the Senators, averaging .029.

Practice Scheduled

International Boiler, the number one team in the Little Bigger League of the Stroudsburgs, will hold a practice session today at East Stroudsburg Playground at 6:15 p. m.

Braves Upset About Story On Fight

Milwaukee, (AP)—A couple of Milwaukee Braves agreed yesterday that they had to read three paragraphs down in newspaper accounts of a New York "brawl" before they discovered the stories were about them.

"How can they write stuff like that?" asked shortstop Johnny Logan. "It was just a couple of hot-heads that lost their temper at the same time."

Laugh

Pitcher Vern Bickford laughed it off as a "one punchlight" in which the Logan fist connected with the Bickford eye after what he called a silly argument.

Newman's Club Plays

Members of the Newman's Dress Shop softball team will clash with Sunset Hill today, near Bushkill. All members of the Newman club are slated to depart from East Stroudsburg Junior High at 6:15 p. m.

Bowling Alleys To Close

Pocono Bowling Center will be closed for the week of August 3 due to reconditioning of the alleys, it was announced yesterday.

School Heads To Attend Conference

County education officials leave this morning to attend the 31st annual "Superintendents and principals conference" at State College.

Monroe County Superintendent John C. Litts and Walter H. Schering, assistant superintendent, will attend a series of discussions beginning at 2 p. m. today and continuing through Thursday afternoon.

In addition to lectures on education problems the group will hear addresses on current events by well-known State, national and international authorities.

Highlight of today's opening program will be an address by John H. Biddle, publisher of the Huntington, Pa. Daily News. Mr. Biddle, one of a group of newspapermen recently allowed to tour Russia, will talk on "Seven Days Behind the Iron Curtain."

Biddle's address is slated for 8 p. m. today. Afternoon sessions will be devoted to exhibits and an address on relationships between the school administrator and his staff by Herbert P. Lauterbach, past president of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Among the topics to be taken up in discussion group meetings during the remainder of the three-day conference:

- "How to best provide for educational needs of 'atypical' children."
- "Trends in education for family living and community life."
- "How to provide a common sense offering in science instruction."
- "The modern physical education program."
- "The administration's responsibility in adult education programs."
- "Developments in education for citizenship and their importance."
- "Functions of the library service in a modern school program."

Also attending the State College conference will be Wilmer B. Frisbie, vocational agriculture advisor for this area; Miss Miriam Lark, vocational homemaking supervisor and Bennett Strait, special education supervisor for this area.

Litts and Schering expect to return from the conference Thursday night.

Dinner Meeting Slated Tonight

County Superintendent John C. Litts will attend a special dinner meeting of the Pennsylvania Educational Research Association tonight at 6 in the State College Hotel.

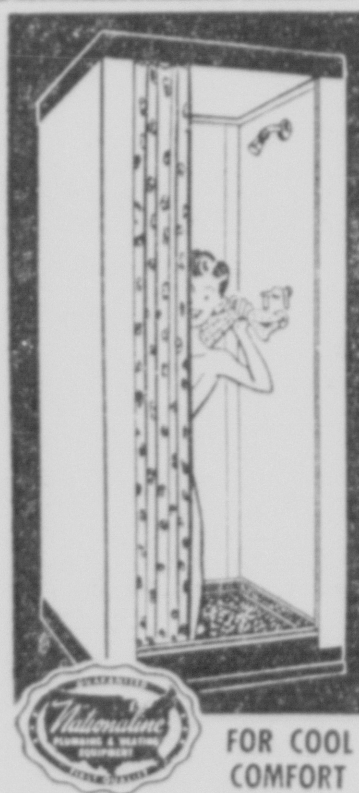

Litts will be in State College through Thursday of this week to attend education meetings.

Penn State doctoral studies will be discussed by Dr. Clifford Jenkins, Northumberland; Dr. Charles Saylor, Jeannette, and Dr. Harry Shenk, York.

Most Crashes Caused By Male Drivers

Ten times more men than women were involved in accidents on Pennsylvania highways during 1952, says the Bureau of Highway Safety in Harrisburg.

The bureau, a branch of the Department of Revenue, says 206,047 men were involved in highway accidents during the year.

This is compared to 21,629 women for the same period.

Male drivers involved in accidents in 1952 increased five percent over the previous year while there were six percent more females in wrecks, the bureau says.

Female involvement in fatal accidents jumped 25 percent during the one-year period, however, the bureau statistics show. Male "fatal accident" involvement went up less than one percent during the same time.

No comment is made by the bureau on the percentage relationship of men drivers on the road to female drivers.

$87,617,440 Set As Cost Of 1952 Motor Accidents

Traffic accidents on Pennsylvania highways cost a whopping $87,617,440 during 1952.

That total is one of the grisly punchlines to a highway horror story told by the Harrisburg Bureau of Highway Safety in its yearly report.

According to the bureau 1,671 persons were killed in traffic accidents during the year;

67,134 persons were injured in highway accidents;

There were 80,605 property damage accidents in the one-year period.

The bureau values each of the lost lives at $18,200. This makes a total of $30,412,200 value in persons killed for 1952.

Estimates on "cost" of death or injury were made through averaging wage losses, medical expenses, property damage and overhead cost of insurance.

Each person injured in a traffic accident, for example, "lost" about $660 on the average, the bureau says.

Since there were 67,134 injuries, total financial loss from accident injuries amounted to $44,308,440.
